May Day Slogan Is Peace Amid Bristling Guns

Biggest Show Put On In Moscow

LONDON — (AP) — Workers on both sides of the Communist fence staged May day parades for peace today, while in Korea U. N. forces continued their desperate fight against Red China's legions.

Peace was the slogan of the day throughout the world, but governments everywhere were on guard against violence as Communists and non-Communists prepared to hold traditional rallies and marches.

Stalin Mounts Tomb

In Korea, Allied commanders expressed belief their guns and planes had halted the Red bid to seize the southern capital of Seoul as a May day trophy. U. N. forces remained braced for an onslaught, however, for there was strong evidence the Communists had not given up the fight for the city.

In Moscow, Generalissimo, Stalin appeared atop Lenin's tomb to view what was expected to be the biggest show of the day and the one where trouble was least likely. As Russian military might paraded past Red Square and thousands of citizens waved banners calling for "peace," the Soviet leader's son, Lt. Gen. Vassili Stalin, led into view a flight of "hundreds of planes," including jet formations, Moscow radio said.

Steel For Cars To Be Curtailed

Additional Cutbacks Due In July

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A further cutback in steel-use allowances for auto makers is due in July, according to national production authority (NPA) officials.

They outlined material supply prospects yesterday to representatives of ten auto making companies serving on an NPA industry advisory committee. A representative of the CIO-United Auto Workers Union also attended.

Auto makers now are restricted to using 80 per cent as much steel as they used in the first half of 1950. The NPA has indicated that the further cutback will be to 70 per cent or less.

At the meeting, the auto manufacturers recommended:

1—Allocations of scarce materials under the controlled materials plan proposed for July 1 be limited to producers of outright military goods and to industries which are unquestionably defense-supporting in the strictest sense.

2—Any forthcoming ceilings or limitations on passenger car production be extended to all other consumer goods using the same metals with steel-use allowance tied to the same base period and percentages.

Takes Trial Spin

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.— (AP)— The man who fast-talked the used car lot of C. B. Smith and Son out of an automobile didn't stop there.

He drove the 1949 car two miles south "on trial" to F. J. Breen's lot and left it there for a "trial" spin in a '51 car. He hasn't been seen since.

Organized Labor Told To Drop Union Label In Mobilization Setup

By HAROLD W. WARD

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The policy committee of the U. S. chamber of commerce today urged that representatives of organized labor take off their union label when they step into the defense mobilization setup.

This recommendation, in the form of a resolution endorsed by the chamber's board of directors, came shortly after the United Labor Policy Committee (ULPC) voted unanimously yesterday to end its two-month boycott of defense agencies. The ULPC speaks for the AFL, CIO and most railroad unions.

The chamber resolution declared that labor and business representatives alike should leave their private affiliations behind them when they become government officials, so they can represent "all the people."

The resolution voiced strong opposition to "special labor representatives, openly functioning as such" in the Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM) and other emergency agencies. It called this "special privilege" for labor.

ULPC voted to put its men back, not only in a reorganized wage stabilization board and into administrative niches up and down the defense organization, but to let them occupy top-level advisory posts in the offices of defense mobilizer Charles E. Wilson and his chief officials.

But a new delay developed in the rebuilding of a wage stabilization board.

The White House was reported to be finding it difficult to locate six persons willing to serve as representatives of the public on the proposed 18-man stabilization panel. Management and labor have nominated their six members each.

Auto Price Ceilings Ordered Continued

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The government today extended indefinitely the present ceiling prices on passenger automobiles.

The office of price stabilization order also directed that manufacturers make reductions from charges for cars delivered without a spare tire and tube.

The national production authority sometime ago banned spare tires and tubes as equipment for new cars.

OPS said with regard to the fifth tire.

Manufacturers with a standard charge for the extra tire, on Dec. 1, 1950 must deduct the charge from the list price to dealers as of that date.

Manufacturers without a standard charge will take what they paid for the tire as of Dec. 1 and whatever percentage markup over cost applies to the entire car. They will use the amount thus figured as the standard charge to be subtracted from the net price to dealers.

OPS said it will issue an order soon changing retail ceilings prices to reflect elimination of the spare tire and tube.

The order continuing present ceilings of passenger cars keeps in effect a 3½ percent increase granted automobile manufacturers on March 2.

Under the first order issued by OPS, automobile prices were frozen last Dec. 18. There was no change until the increase was granted March 2.

OPS said today's extension freezes car prices until sufficient data may be presented to show a need for revision under pricing standards recently announced by economic stabilizer Eric Johnston.

Tornado Rips Roofs In Oklahoma City; Many Cut By Glass

OKLAHOMA CITY—(AP)— A tornado skipped dangerously through thickly populated sections of Oklahoma City last night causing extensive property damage.

No serious injuries were reported but several persons were treated for cuts from flying glass and debris.

The tornado apparently started its hit and miss jaunt in the southwestern section where several homes were de-roofed.

Heaviest damage came in the central section of the city. The Oklahoma Sash and Door company office building and warehouse was splintered by the strong circular winds.

An auto wash concern and a drug store reported damage to their roofs.

Reds Dry Up Two Rivers For Big Thrust In Korea

Gen. Bradley Asked To Explain Leak In Wake Island Secret

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senators called on Gen. Omar N. Bradley today to explain how a formerly top secret account of President Truman's Wake Island conference with Gen. Douglas MacArthur came into existence.

Senator Russell (D-Ga), chairman of two committees looking into the policy dispute involved in the president's firing of MacArthur as Pacific commander, told a reporter he had asked Bradley to state in a letter to him how the report was prepared. Bradley is chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

Some Blame Truman

Despite its top secret classification, what was described as a summary of the report was published recently. Some Republicans accused the administration of having "leaked" the document in an attempt to discredit MacArthur. Several blamed Mr. Truman himself.

Among other things, the account as published in the New York Times described MacArthur as not believing at the October, 1950, conference that Red China would intervene in the Korean fighting.

MacArthur's aides have said intelligence on the Chinese Communist intervention—which the general said created a "new war"—should have come from Washington and not the field commander.

No Reporters Present

Russell will preside when the Senate armed services and foreign relations committees formally open an inquiry Thursday—with MacArthur as the first witness—into the policy disagreement. Russell is chairman of the armed services commitee.

As a preliminary to those hearings, which the groups have voted to hold behind closed doors, senators yesterday questioned Felix Larkin, general counsel of the defense department.

Russell quoted Larkin as saying he did not believe any official reporter was present when the president and five advisers sat down with MacArthur at Wake Island. Mr. Truman and the general previously had talked alone for an hour.

No Public Hearing

Yet lawmakers said when the document was declassified and opened to their inspection yesterday, they found it was in conversational form carrying what purported to be direct statements of participants in the conference.

Some of the lawmakers compared it with the congressional record's report on Senate and House debates, adding that it went so far as to bracket in the word "laughter" at some points.

The two committees voted 14 to 9 yesterday against public hearings. Senator Tobey of New Hampshire joined with 13 Democrats against a motion by Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), supported by eight other Republicans, to hold the hearings in public.

President Mum About Dawson

Aide Mixed In RFC Influence Story

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman kept mum today on whether, after all, he will send White House aide Donald S. Dawson before a Senate subcommittee to reply to its charges.

Mr. Truman once brushed aside as asinine the group's charges that Dawson and others wielded influence on government loans.

The subcommittee's reply was a series of public hearings in which witnesses testified that Dawson was a member of a ring which influenced some reconstruction finance corporation (RFC) loans.

The Senate banking committee, meanwhile, has under consideration rival bills on the RFC—to reform and continue it, or to abolish it. Yesterday, ex-president Hoover, who set up the RFC, told the committee it should be abolished now.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Fulbright (D-Ark), had fixed yesterday as a deadline for Dawson to say whether he now is willing to testify.

The deadline expired last night with only a terse White House statement that Mr. Truman "has the matter under consideration."

Meanwhile W. Stuart Symington was expected to take over today as the new head of RFC in a shakeup that abolishes the agency's five-man board of directors.

Charlevoix Man, 56, Shoots Himself In State Liquor Store

CHARLEVOIX, Mich.—(AP)—Albert Taylor, 56, shot himself to death today in the Charlevoix state liquor store of which he was manager.

Dr. Isaac Terr, acting coroner, said Taylor committed suicide by firing a .16 gauge shotgun into his chest.

Taylor's family said he had been despondent over ill health in recent months. He had been a state employe 11 years and liquor store manager here two years.

The body was found by Jack McDermott, a clerk.

Survivors include his wife and three daughters.

Jury Convicts Ohio Lawmaker

Congressman Guilty Of Campaign Graft

By FRED HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Republican Rep. Walter E. Brehm of Ohio, a five-term member of Congress, was convicted last night of receiving $1,000 in unlawful political contributions.

After deliberating four hours and 18 minutes, a federal court jury of 10 men and two women found the 58-year-old Ohioan guilty on five counts, involving as many $200 contributions from Mrs. Emma S. Craven while she worked for him in 1948.

The maximum sentence that could be imposed is 15 years in prison and a $25,000 fine. But maximum penalties seldom are imposed in convictions on several counts.

Brehm was convicted of breaking a law that forbids congressmen to accept political gifts from persons on the federal payroll.

Brehm's lawyer, Leo A. Rover, told reporters he will ask for a new trial. Failing that, he said, he will appeal the case to higher courts.

Although convicted of a federal offense, Brehm does not automatically lose his seat in Congress from Ohio's 11th district. Only the House itself can oust one of its members.

May Weather Mixed; Snow In Rockies

(By The Associated Press)

It was the merry, merry month of May and snow fell in the Rocky Mountain states. But it was like midsummer over much of the midwest and southward to the gulf.

Showers and thundershowers covered a belt from Minnesota and Iowa southward into Texas. There were dust storms in parts of the west.

Heaviest snowfalls were reported in Montana. The falls measured four inches at Missoula.

Winds up to 40 miles an hour whipped up dust storms last night in eastern Colorado, western Nebraska, western Kansas and southeastern Wyoming. Rain fell along the eastern slope of the Rockies in Colorado.

A tornado skipped through thickly populated areas of Oklahoma City last night and caused extensive property damage. No serious injuries were reported.

Temperatures climbed into the 80's in parts of the central states yesterday and more of the summer-like weather was forecast today.

Ex-Mayor O'Dwyer Accused Of Aiding New York Rackets

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senate crime investigators today accused Ambassador William O'Dwyer of contributing to the growth of organized crime in New York City, where they said underworld kingpin Frank Costello is a power in Democratic politics.

O'Dwyer was New York's mayor from 1946 until last fall when President Truman appointed him ambassador to Mexico. From 1940 to 1942 O'Dwyer was district attorney of Kings county (Brooklyn).

Investigations Blocked

Referring to O'Dwyer's tenure both as mayor and district attorney, the crime committee had this to say in a lengthy and hard-hitting report on its year-long probe of gangsterism:

"Neither he nor his appointees took any effective action against the top echelons of the gambling, narcotics, water-front, murder or book-making rackets. In fact, his actions impeded promising investigations of such rackets."

The crime probers, headed by Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn.), also said O'Dwyer had named to high public office friends of Costello and Joe Adonis, another big time racketeer and gambler.

New Laws Needed

And after a lengthy detailing of Costello's alleged political manipulations, the Senate committee summed up in these words:

"It is apparent to the committee that despite Costello's protestations, his sinister influence is

Gas Tax Raise Runs Into Snag

Ferndale Solon Balks At Compromise Bill

LANSING—(AP)—Despite a majority endorsement by both house and senate Republican caucuses, the bill raising Michigan's gasoline tax from three to five cents a gallon still trembles uncertainly.

The "package" of high tax increases was approved in both caucuses and by majorities of a house-senate conference committee and was considered ready for passage early this week in routine fashion.

Today, it was learned, Senator George N. Higgins (R-Ferndale) is balking.

Informed senators said Higgins has refused to sign the conference report in anger because Rep. Emil R. Peltz (R-Rogers City) has sponsored the Democrats' corporation profits tax as a "lure" to get Democratic house members to agree to help override Governor Williams' expected veto of the gas tax boost.

"They're not going to work any deals on me," Higgins said. "I'll have this straightened out by Wednesday and then we'll know where we stand."

Vogeler Comes Back To U. S. A.

Family Leaves Land Of Iron Curtain

NEW YORK — (AP) — Robert A. Vogeler, freed from 17 months imprisonment by Communist Hungary, arrived home today.

Accompanied by his family, he landed in a Pan American World Airways plane at New York International airport at 10:20 a. m. (EDT).

The big Transocean Clipper, which flew here from London, taxied to a customs area where a huge battery of television and newsreel cameras was set up behind a barrier.

The 39-year-old American businessman, held prisoner in Hungary as a spy, was released after prolonged negotiations between the Communist government and the United States.

Turned over to the U. S. embassy at Vienna, he left there by plane yesterday under a cloak of state department secrecy.

He was accompanied by his blonde wife, Lucille, their two sons, Bobby, 11, and Billy, 9, and his sister-in-law, Pia Eykens.

Also with the party was grant A. Williams, representative in Austria of the International Telephone and Telegraph company of which Vogeler is a vice president.

Sluice Gates Closed To Cut Water Supply

Enemy Hordes Shift After Seoul Defeat

TOKYO — (AP) — Communist troops preparing for a new attack in Central Korea today cut off the water supply for rivers blocking their invasion route.

The Han river dropped so sharply that United Nations engineers had to adjust pontoon bridges three times Tuesday.

An Allied spokesman said the Chinese closed the sluice gates to the Hwachon dam in an effort to dry up the Pukhan and Han rivers. That would make it easier for Red assault forces to cross.

Plans Disrupted

Censors prevented correspondents from saying how much the river had fallen.

Simultaneously the Reds shifted their forces to the central front after massed Allied artillery, naval guns and record swarms of planes disrupted their plans for a May day assault on Seoul.

AP correspondent Nate Polowetzky described the buildup of Red forces along the Chunchon-Hongchon invasion route as ominous.

United Nations artillery roared out Tuesday night in an effort to break up some of the Red concentrations.

There were no reports on ground action of any size on May Day either on the central front or in the west near Seoul, where the Reds had hoped to celebrate their international holiday.

Three Allied tank columns probed northeast of Seoul Tuesday morning in an unsuccessful hunt for Reds.

Stay Out of Range

A censored dispatch from AP correspondent George MacArthur said U. N. commanders estimated the main body of Reds still in the west was staying far enough north to keep out of range of devastating American artillery.

The Red pullback created a no man's land between the extreme range of U. N. guns and forward Chinese elements. Small advanc-

Man Who Shot Wife In Monroe Hospital Committed To Ionia

MONROE, Mich.— (AP) —Arthur McCreary, who shot his wife to death in Monroe hospital last March 14, has been ordered committed to Ionia state hospital for the criminal insane.

The 53-year-old McCreary was ordered to the hospital yesterday after two psychiatrists testified he was suffering from a "deep-seated mental disorder."

McCreary has been in jail since the shooting at the Monroe hospital. His wife, Betty, 40, was shot to death after McCreary had taken her to the hospital for treatment of a broken arm, which police said she suffered in an earlier struggle with her husband.

Mrs. Wilma Karian, a nurse, was wounded by the same shotgun blast. Recently discharged from the hospital, she has sued the McCreary estate for $5,000.

Further Testimony By George Lindenthal Is Given In Norton Case

The examination of George Lindenthal, former Daily Press employe, was continued today before a circuit court jury hearing the contest of the will of the late John P. Norton, founder of the Escanaba Daily Press.

Judge Glenn W. Jackson ruled out testimony presented by Lindenthal in connection with comments concerning appointment of a guardian for Norton.

The court sustained objections by counsel in defense of the Norton will, told the jury to disregard any reference to questions of the appointment of a guardian, and said that no evidence had been presented to show that a guardian was ever requested for Mr. Norton or that one was ever appointed.

Was Paid $6,601.45

In recross-examination by counsel in defense of the will, George Lindenthal was unable to recall the salary he received in 1949 from the Escanaba Daily Press. At that time Lindenthal was employed by the Delta Broadcasting company, a separate corporation.

Further examination and the introduction in evidence of Daily Press records showing expenditures for salaries revealed that in 1949 George Lindenthal received $6,601.45 from the Daily Press.

Lindenthal said this morning that he could not recall anything further concerning a $6,000 loan from John Norton than what he had testified to yesterday.

Had Two Policies

The Daily Press in 1949 paid its employes in cash each Saturday, and Lindenthal testified that he continued to receive his salary at the Press "until it was stopped without notice" in February, 1950.

An objection to testimony on salaries and pension-trust insurance policies by counsel seeking to break the Norton will was overruled by the court. Judge Jackson pointed out the contestants had raised the question that Press employes were "objects of Mr. Norton's bounty."

Further recross-examination brought admission from George Lindenthal that "I believe I did have two" insurance policies under the employe pension-trust plan established by Mr. Norton.

Says Never Notified

After February, 1950, Lindenthal received his pay from the Delta Broadcasting company, he said.

In response to a question as to when he had seen Mr. Norton after February, 1950, he said:

"I was barred from seeing Mr. Norton or talking with him after I returned from Washington."

Yesterday he testified he saw Mr. Norton on Feb. 19, 1950, before leaving for Washington on a business trip.

Lindenthal said that he had never been notified that his insurance policies had been cancelled. He identified a letter from B. M. Stade, Daily Press office manager, as copy of an original he had received in October, 1950, with a check for $347.26 in payment for his "vested interest" in two pension-trust policies.

Radio Station Stock

In cross-examination yesterday afternoon George Lindenthal identified himself as a defendant with his brother, Frank, in a suit for an accounting brought by the late John Norton in connection with the Lindenthals' operation of the radio station WDBC. The suit is being continued in the names of Atty. James E. Frost and Juel Lee, special administrators of the Norton estate.

George Lindenthal denied that in Dec., 1949, he had gone to the Escanaba National Bank with Norton to obtain a loan to purchase stock in the Delta Broadcasting company, of which Norton was president.

In response to other questions in relation to the subject of a loan for George Lindenthal by which he might purchase stock in Delta Broadcasting company, Lindenthal said:

"Mr. Norton had approached me several times to buy stock in the radio station."

On Press Payroll

Atty. Denis McGinn, counsel for proponents of the will, asked George Lindenthal if he had not in the spring of 1950 told Atty. McGinn that he (George Lindenthal) and Norton had gone to the bank where arrangements were made by Norton for Lindenthal to purchase stock in the Delta Broadcasting company, and Lindenthal replied:

"I do not believe your memory is correct, sir."

Lindenthal could not recall whether, in February, 1950, any question concerning his salary being paid by the Escanaba Daily Press was discussed. After the introduction in evidence of a letter written by George Lindenthal to James G. Ward Jr., Daily Press general manager, Lindenthal recalled the question.

The letter from Lindenthal to Ward advised Ward that his request for information concerning Lindenthal's salary being paid by the Daily Press should be taken up with John Norton.

"Barred" From Norton

George Lindenthal could not recall the salary he was receiving from the Escanaba Daily Press, but thought it was "around $100 a week." Lindenthal continued on the Daily Press payroll to February, 1950, although he had been employed at the radio station since 1947.

Asked whether he knew of a meeting of Daily Press employes with John Norton on Feb. 17, 1950, and the dismissal of Frank Lindenthal as manager of the Daily Press by Mr. Norton the following day, George Lindenthal said he did not know of it except through others. He was unable to say when he first heard of his brother's dismissal, but said he knew of it now.

Returning from a trip shortly after Feb. 19, 1950, George Lindenthal testified that he was unable to see Mr. Norton because he was "barred from the Norton home" and was told not to try to see Mr. Norton or talk to employes of the Daily Press. He was told this, he said, by Atty. James E. Frost and Atty. James Fitzharris.

He said he went to see Atty. Frost to "try to find out who I was working for," and to "help straighten out the confusion."

Wanted $10,000 Loan

Asked whether he had ever told John Norton in the presence of another witness that Ward was "trying to sell the Press to the Russells," George Lindenthal said he did "make a remark of that nature." He identified Frank Russell as publisher of the Marquette Mining Journal and connected with the Iron Mountain News.

Judge Jackson overruled an objection to the admission by Atty. McGinn of a letter from Atty. Wheaton L. Strom, representing Frank and George Lindenthal in the accounting suit, in which George Lindenthal asked McGinn and Fitzharris to take up with John Norton the matter of a $10,000 loan to the Delta Broadcasting company.

George Lindenthal testified the broadcasting company was "a little short of operating capital" at that time, May, 1950.

Judge Jackson held the letter admissable as evidence of Mr. Norton's mental condition at the time the loan was requested by George Lindenthal.

Norton In Charge

Earlier in 1950, George Lindenthal testified, Mr. Norton gave him $6,000 on an unsecured loan basis.

The answers prepared by Atty. Strom for Frank and George Lindenthal to allegations of John Norton in his suit for an accounting were presented by Atty. McGinn in the cross-examination of George Lindenthal.

These answers by the defendants revealed their denial that they operated the radio station without first consulting with Mr. Norton and receiving his authorization and consent in all major matters of business. Mr. Norton "was active and in complete charge of its basic policies," the Delta Broadcasting company, the Lindenthals said. Norton also participated in the "direction and management" of the broadcasting company, they said. They denied Norton failed to exercise his executive authority as president of the broadcasting company.

Later in cross-examination, George Lindenthal testified: "I probably did some things without his (Norton's) consent, but they had to be done."

READY FOR FLIGHT — Metropolitan Opera soprano Astrid Varnay looks Wagnerian enough as she boards a plane in New York for Bayreuth, Germany, to appear as the first American "Brunnhilde" in the 75-year history of the Wagner music festival there. Besides the helmet and spear, the plane's symbolic wings, against which Miss Varnay stands, accidentally add to the "Die Walkure" costume.

Crane Adopts Hiawatha Farm As Permanent Home

HIAWATHA — Passers-by on M-94 are much interested in the sand hill crane which suns itself near the road at the Lawrence Aldrich home. The crane came to the Aldriches last summer when it was very young and ignored the usual custom of migrating to warmer climes when winter set in, staying with them throughout to sub-zero weather. It often follows the children to school and takes short flights in the neighborhood but always returns at meal time.

Easter Seals Net $2,011.21

Drive Tops Last Year Mark, Report Shows

Contributions of $2,011.21 were made by Delta county residents to the annual Easter Seal campaign, Treasurer William Warmington said today. That is slightly more than was turned in last year.

Half of that amount will stay in the county and the other half will go to the Michigan Society for Crippled Children.

The Michigan Society will sponsor a clinic here for cerebral palsy cases at the junior high school Aug. 21 and 22. The clinic will be handled by Dr. M. R. Pearlstein of Chicago, one of the nation's top authorities on the disease.

James Degnan, county chairman for the drive, said today:

"We are deeply indebted to Delta county residents for their support of this important work. Crippled children of every walk of life need help and we know this money will be put to excellent use."

Rat Campaign To Begin Soon

Public Requested To Notify City

The annual rat extermination campaign will be launched in Escanaba the latter part of next week, Joseph Holmes, superintendent of the street department, announces.

Persons noticing rats around their premises are asked to notify the street department, telephone No. 610, or the service department, No. 1976.

Red squill bait again will be used to destroy the rodents.

Holmes also stated the city will not conduct a special alley cleanup drive this spring. Anyone having ashes and other refuse to be disposed of, however, is asked to place them in containers near their garbage cans. The refuse will be picked up by the regular garbage collector.

Persons not having an adequate number of containers for disposal of the trash at one time are advised that the remainder can be collected during successive garbage pick-ups.

Voters' League Hears Pollock

Tells Government Reorganizing Plans

The federal government is like a giant hippopotomus wallowing around in bureaucratic red tape and disorganization, James K. Pollock, dean of the school of political science of the University of Michigan, said at a meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters at the Escanaba junior high school last night.

"Big government is our present danger," Pollock said. "It has gotten out of control, and the only way to control it is by reorganization so that we'll have democratic government on a modern basis."

A member of the famous Hoover commission that made a study of the problem of reorganizing the federal government, Pollock described how our national government has grown to one having more than two million civilian employes and a 40-billion dollar budget.

"Free Wheeling" Agencies

Governmental bureaus and agencies mushroomed during the Roosevelt administration and the expansion continued during World War II, Pollock pointed out. Only 10 per cent of the federal employes are working in Washington, the remainder being located all over the world. Pollock said there are more federal than state employes in Michigan.

The Hoover commission found many agencies created by act of Congress that were "free wheeling units" responsible to no one but themselves. In some organizations there was no chain of command, the speaker said. Forty-two reorganization plans were submitted to Congress, and only about nine were rejected.

According to Pollock, stiff opposition to reorganization was met in the department of agriculture, Interstate Commerce commission and the Federal Communications commission.

Much waste and extravagance were found by the commission, Pollock continued. The taxpayers' money is squandered because of over staffing, poor accounting and sloppy purchasing. Eighteen million square feet was devoted to filing cases in Washington, or space equal to six Pentagon buildings.

Pressure Groups Effective

"Fortunately thus far the country seems to have survived this waste and extravagance," Pollock said. "But how long we can continue in this manner is the important question. The federal government has grown so big that the president and Congress cannot control it. It is too big and poorly organized for the people to control it."

Pollock explained that pressure groups are exerting their power over the political parties, and it has reached the point where both the Republican and Democratic platforms and policies do not mean much. Both parties are divided on important political issues, he added. The need for better disciplined parties was mentioned.

"Our government is not under direct, effective and responsive democratic control," Pollock said. He added that reorganization, as recommended by the Hoover commission, would help considerable to remedy the evils of big government.

Pollock was introduced by Mrs. Victor Powers, member of the League of Women Voters. In his introductory remarks, the speaker praised the league for its contributions to the cause of good citizenship in this country.

Harnischfeger Opposes Seaway

Milwaukee A. Of C. Asked To Reconsider

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The Milwaukee Association of Commerce will be asked to reconsider its opposition to the construction at this time of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway, Paul A. Pratt, president, said Thursday.

Pratt said that in the light of military defense needs which have been brought out since the association took its original action on the seaway in 1948, he expected personally to ask the association's executive board to reconsider at its next meeting.

Pratt's statement was made as a chorus of protests arose here from seaway supporters over the apearance of Walter Harnischfeger, Milwaukee industrialist and chairman of the national affairs committee of the Association of Commerce, before a house public works committee in Washington Tuesday. Harnischfeger opposed immediate construction of the waterway.

Delay for "Recession"

He said that the association favored deferment of the project until the "next recession," when more manpower and materials would be available at lower costs.

The association's stand before the committee came as a surprise to seaway proponents here who had forgotten the association action of 1948.

Gov. Kohler, himself an industrialist, Wednesday telegraphed Representative George Dondero of Michigan, ranking Republican member of the house public works committee and a leading supporter of the seaway project:

"May I reaffirm the support of Wisconsin industry, agriculture and the state government for the St. Lawrence seaway proposal now being considered by the public works committee. Consider this proposal to be of extreme importance to the development of Wisconsin industrial capacity, particularly in this period of national emergency."

Mayor Sends Message

Mayor Zeidler, in a message to Representative Dondero, said:

"Please convey to the members of the house public works committee the vigorous and continued support of the city of Milwaukee, its citizens and its business community for the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

"The power and navigation resources of the St. Lawrence river must be harnessed as an essential part of our long range national mobilization. Soviet Russia rapidly is building new industrial potential by developing major rivers for power and navigation. The United States and our friendly neighbor, Canada, will be immeasurably strengthened for the critical years ahead by the seaway."

Labor Charges Sabotage

The Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, which has been working to obtain support of its parent body, the American Federation of Labor, for the seaway, charged that the Association of Commerce was "sabotaging" the seaway project in favor of "the electric power gang who want to continue to milk the public."

George A. Haberman, WSFL president, said:

"What kind of association business is this, anyway, arguing against a project that will sustain the area for hundreds of miles around the very city in which the association thrives and for whose benefit it claims the right to live?"

Sees "Defeatist" Attitude

Asserting that the association was adopting a "defeatist" attitude by "planning for the future with a recession bias," Haberman said:

"Of course, we do not belong to the association but, if we did, we would check it very carefully to discover whose interests it really serves. Milwaukee industries, who will benefit greatly from the seaway, ought to get busy and check right now, for this move really reeks with selfishness at the expense of the public.

"Sabotaging the city, the state —yes, the nation—means nothing to the association, so long as it is making an even broader possibility for the 'electric power gang' to continue to milk the public."

Haberman referred to statements by Harnischfeger to the committee that the association would oppose government operation of any power projects which would be developed as a part of the seaway.

Alcohol Evils Told By Morris

Says Much Drinking Is Done By Youth

Two-thirds of all drinkers in this country began drinking while in high school, Rev. Sam Morris, national temperance lecturer, declared at a meeting held at the Central Methodist church Monday afternoon.

The Temperance League of Michigan is attacking this problem, he said, by going in the schools with speakers and printed material. In the past year about 175,000 students in the junior and senior schools in this state have been given the temperance message.

Evils of Alcohol

"Alcohol is a habit forming poisonous narcotic which befuddles the brain, depresses the nerves, distorts the vision, retards muscular reactions and releases inhibitions," Morris said.

"There is no difference in the social, moral and industrial effects of legal liquor and bootleg whiskey," he continued. "What a man does as a bootlegger, without my knowledge, against my will, over my protest and in spite of my vote, I cannot be blamed for nor be a party to.

"But if I walk up to a ballot box and vote for legalized liquor, the endorsement of my vote in the ballot box makes me a party to the effects of liquor on any individual whether it be murder, accidents, divorce or any other crime. You cannot do anything about the victim of drinking unless you do something about the brewer, the distillery, the booze joint, the bars and cafes."

Morris criticized the legislators and other officials who spend much of their time at capital cocktail parties.

"In the nation's capital," he said, "where the steadiest nerves and brains and the strongest hearts are needed, there is more drinking per capita than in any other place in the nation. According to the census, one gallon of liquor per capita is consumed throughout the nation, while in Washington the figure is four gallons."

Morris was accompanied here by Rev. E. C. Prettyman, executive secretary of the Temperance League of Michigan.

Miss Call Gives Talk On Employe Relations

Improved understanding and treatment of employes bring increased efficiency and better products, Miss Catherine Call, member of the Bell Telephone company's personnel department, said in an interesting talk at the meeting of the Kiwanis club Monday noon.

"Men are more important than machines," Miss Call said. "We have found in industry that the tool is only as good as the person who uses it."

Factors in the development of high moral among workers were cited by the Bell Telephone company representative. These she listed as a sense of achievement, recognition for achievement, self-respect and belongingness.

Make Worker's Happy

Workers are happiest when they are doing a job at which they are achieving something, Miss Call said. This problem calls for fitting employes to the job for which they are best suited, involving work that is neither too hard nor too easy."

All workers like to get recognition from their employers for their achievements on the job, Miss Call continued. They also want to feel they are doing work that is worthwhile. Workers also want to be a part of an office or company, made to feel they belong, she added.

Bell Company Program

Miss Call listed various activities and projects the Bell Telephone company has carried on to create a better spirit among its 22,000 employes in Michigan. On monotonous jobs such as envelope stuffing, pleasing music is piped to the office for the enjoyment of the girls enjoyed at this routine task.

The Bell Telephone company instituted a suggestion plan in 1945, she reported. Many helpful suggestions have been received by the management from the workers since the inauguration of this system. The Bell company also maintains health, family living and recreation programs for its employes.

Miss Call holds a master's degree in clinical psychology from the University of Michigan. After serving with the Michigan Department of Mental Health four years, she joined Bell two years ago.

Escanaba Youth Gets Out Of Car, Left In Milwaukee

Milwaukee is a big, strange and kind place to 9 year old James Bernard, who was left there by his parents Sunday night.

James was asleep in the back seat of the car, when his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bernard, 1511 Stephenson ave., Escanaba, Mich., stopped to eat. They parked in front of 2928 W. Libson ave. Milwaukee.

Noticed They Were Gone

When he woke up, James noticed that his mother and father were gone. He left his little sisters, Shirley, 20 months, and Rosemary, 6 months, sleeping in the back seat of the car while he went to look for his parents.

They returned to the car while he was gone, and drove off without looking into the back seat. James was found outside a tavern at 9:55 p. m. by a tavern keeper, who turned him over to police. He was taken to the reception cottage of the county children's home at 12:34 a. m.

On Way to Escanaba

James told authorities at the children's home that his mother took him and his sisters to Waukegan Saturday. His father had been working there. They were on their way back to Escanaba when he got lost.

Milwaukee police said Monday that his parents sought help from police in Fond du Lac when they missed James. Fond du Lac police said they were on their way back to Milwaukee to get the boy.

James wasn't upset during his separation from his parents. He slept well at the children's home authorities there said.

Vogeler's Ransom May Endanger Other Americans In Red Areas

ROBERT A. VOGELER, the American who was sentenced to serve 15 years in prison in Communist Hungary on charges of spying for the United States government, has been granted his freedom as a result of negotiations that have been in progress most of the 17 months which Vogeler served in prison.

Purportedly the negotiations for Vogeler's release were conducted on a diplomatic basis between the governments of the United States and Hungary, but in reality it was not a case of diplomacy at all. It was simply a case of one nation, the United States, paying ransom to another, Hungary, for the release of a kidnaped national.

Naturally, Americans are happy that Vogeler has been spared more of the tortures of a Communist prison camp but it is a shock to us to learn that our government has consented to pay ransom for his release. The ransom demands were not made in terms of dollars but in terms of other benefits desired by the Hungarian government.

In effecting Vogeler's release by means of ransom, the United States government may actually have endangered the lives of other Americans subject to seizure in the Communist-controlled lands. Hungary's success in securing ransom for Vogeler may encourage other nations unfriendly to the United States to gain benefits from our government in a similar manner—by seizing one or more of our subjects.

To secure Vogeler's release, the American government accepted four ransom terms. They are restoration of Hungarian property recovered in the U. S. zone in Germany; lifting of a ban on travel of Hungary; permitting the reopening of Hungarian consulates in New York and Cleveland; and changing the frequency of the Voice of America relay transmitter in Munich, so that it will not conflict with Radio Budapest.

War Secret 'Leaks' Endanger GI Lives

BASICALLY, it does not matter whether the Senate hearings into the MacArthur controversy and our Far Eastern policy are open to the public or not. Past experience with closed sessions assures that most of what is said behind locked doors will find its way into print anyway.

The very vital question of military security thus cannot be solved simply by closing the committee room doors. Senators enjoy being privy to important secrets; they enjoy even more passing them on to reporters.

The temptation to leak out the big things puzzing in their heads or resting in their desk drawers is just too great for most of them. They seem to regard leaking vital information as one way of establishing or enhancing their own prestige.

In this particular instance, the urge is probably greater than ever. The MacArthur issue has stirred violent emotions on both sides. Antagonists are eager to throw into the balance of debate every scrap of evidence they can unearth.

The danger in this is plain. It is that military security will suffer, and that American soldiers fighting in Korea will pay with their lives.

Developments in the MacArthur matter thus far do not encourage the hope that this peril will be averted without extreme consciousness of the problem. Up to this point, the administration has been the principal offender.

In an effort to prove General MacArthur's insubordination, it released details of numerous interchanges between Washington and the general during the final months of his command. Is there anyone who imagines the Russians and Chinese will not find it useful to know these things?

The lesson for the enemy is not in any particular detail, or even all the details. It's in disclosing how we think about certain problems, what procedures we follow, how we evaluate information. These are valuable guides to the Reds in weighing our probable future actin in any situation.

By the same token, it was hardly wise to let a New York Times reporter gain access to documentary material about the Truman-MacArthur meeting at Wake Island last fall. To be sure, at least one columnist had published a similar version months before, but his account lacked the evident stamp of administration sanction which the Times story bore.

Both the administration and the members of the Senate must face the fact that, while a complete inquiry into our Far Eastern policy is desirable, it cannot be conducted at risk of American lives. If that means that certain vital documents must be kept secret to avoid giving the enemy useful information, then no other choice is possible.

A lot of the combatants in this new "great debate" want either to "get" Mr. Truman or to "get" MacArthur. It would be a profound tragedy if in their frenzied pursuit of these goals they allowed the Communists to "get" several thousand American G. I.'s on the battlefield.

Dangerous Apathy In Washington

IT ought to be significant of something or other that our lawmakers in Washington cannot even agree these days on a dispersal program for the capital.

A plan was drawn up calling for removal of many thousands of government workers to outlying areas, on the theory that a capital so spread out would be a less vulnerable target in case of enemy air attack.

For half a dozen assorted reasons, the program bit the dust in the Senate. Some lawmakers simply didn't like the particular plan, but they didn't offer any real alternatives.

Dispersal of government facilities vital to the continuance of the government in war or other crisis is not somebody's silly pipe dream. What do the senators propose? That the government stay highly concentrated until the bombs begin to fall?

OPS Promises Cut In Price Of Meat

AT long last, the Office of Price Stabilization has started to do something about the outrageous cost of meat.

It has taken steps to roll back the price of meat and the average housewife will offer fervent thanks if she can ever see any appreciable cut in her meat bill.

Of course, not even OPS says the price will drop appreciably immediately. But at least it gaves hope that by fall the workingman may be able to have meat back on his table more than once a week again.

Food, of course, is a "must" in family living. Costs of a lot of other items, especially hard goods, can go up and the average man can get along without them some way until they get back to within reach of common sense. But man has to eat. And when exorbitant food prices take up all but a few shekels of the fixed pay check, the average household is stalled.

Naturally, no one expects the price of meat to be rolled back so far that the sattle raisers lose money. In the long run, that would kick back because if cattle dealers can't make a fair profit they'll just quit raising cattle. And high prices will be back again of necessity simply because the supply is not sufficient to go around.

Yes, if OPS action brings an end to $1-a-pound round steak and even more unreasonable prices for other meat, it will begin to get rising votes of thanks from the man on the street.

SOLDIERS ARE PEOPLE
(Marquette Mining Journal)

One of the difficulties of being a soldier is that some misguided souls, although perhaps well-meaning, forgot that he is a human being with a human being's capacity for using his brain. Thus he is sometimes deprived of these simple pleasures which are afforded to the person who does not wear a uniform. In Germany, for example, the American Army of Occupation's production of the play "Mister Roberts" has been closed because someone thought the language too strong.

As Joshua Logan, co-author of the play, said, millions of men and women have seen "Mister Roberts" without objecting to any of the language in it. Its dialogue is mild compared with the true speech of service men. "Mister Roberts" is a funny and at times moving portrayal of service men in war. It has been a success' wherever it has played.

Surely if we have to put men into uniform to protect and preserve our freedoms, as we must, we ought to allow them to enjoy some of those freedoms. We think the play should be reopened. If the troops are going to be corrupted by seeing "Mister Roberts," then they corrupt more easily than any other people we have heard about.

A night club charged one dollar for a glass of milk. They ought to keep the cows contented that way.

It seems that every shoestring is made so that it will break just when you are in a hurry.

It's nice to meet people who never brag—if they don't brag about it.

Maytime

By Gordon Martin

MARTIN

Take a sun that smiles from heaven and some clouds of fleecy white, put them both against an azure sky that makes the whole world bright; take a balmy breeze that sways the tops of graceful, soaring trees, add the shades of green in budding leaves as pretty as you please; and from somewhere up above you hear the Greatest Artist say: "If you mix them all together, you will have the month of May."

Take the music of a rippling brook, the lilting call of birds, and combine it with the buzz of bees and lowing of the herds, plus the crowing of a rooster and the barking of a dog, and the snoring of a fisherman who napes against a log; don't forget you also need the happy shout of kids at play—if you mix them all together, you will have the month of May.

Take the beauty of a fragrant rose, the clover and the grass, and the morning dew that always shines as bright and clear as glass; and be sure you don't forget the scent of honeysuckle vines, and the color and the grace with which the morning glory twines, and from somewhere up above you'll hear the Greatest Artist say: "If you mix all these together, you will have the month of May."

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Before President Truman made his tough decision to fire General MacArthur, he asked General Matt Ridgway for a confidential opinion as to whether U. N. forces could hold against the expected big Communist offensive.

Truman took this precution, first because it had been known for some time that the offensive was coming, second because he also knew what a catastrophic torrent of criticism would be heaped on his head if after relieving MacArthur, U. N. forces suffered a staggering defeat.

Gen. Ridgway cabled back that his forces could hold. He went further and stated that he could hold against any enemy attack for sixty days — even without reinforcements. The Pentagon, reporting this to the White House, said they had complete confidence in Ridgway, so Truman shot the works with MacArthur.

There are several important reasons for this confidence, all going to the tremendously improved fighting quality and command of American troops.

Last December a Chinese army only half as big as that facing us today, was thrown against the U. N. It was not one million men as MacArthur announced. Yet that relatively small Chinese force threw the 8th army for a headlong retreat of more than 120 miles. Furthermore the Chinese army of last December was poorly equipped with small arms and almost no heavy artillery.

Today, twice as many Chinese are attacking, equipped with twice the firepower of last December. Meanwhile U. N. forces are only slightly bigger than as of last December.

Chief change between now and then, however, is in American fighting spirit and strategy, for which Lt. Gen. Matt Ridgway deserves most of the credit. Here is what he has done:

AMERICAN GUERRILLAS

1. Previously, the mechanized American forces were roadbound and easily outflanked by the Chinese, who swarmed through the backwoods and rice paddies, usually keeping off the main highways. Ridgway has now moved his infantry off the roads, and trained them to fight on the Communists' own ground. Instead of relying on trucks and jeeps, Ridgway has hired South Korean bearers to haul supplies to G. I.'s who are dug in off the highways. Ridgway also has used guerrilla-trained American rangers to harass the enemy behind their lines.

2. Ridgway has moved cautiously, and patrolled every step of the way, instead of racing ahead pell-mell, as Lt. Gen. Edward Almond and the late Gen. Walton Walker did last November to see whose troops could reach the Yalu river first. Ridgway also keeps tight liason between his front-line commands, in contrast with the Eighth army and Tenth corps last November which were forced to keep in touch with each other through Tokyo, a thousand miles away.

3. Ridgway has reorganized his command down to the company level. This got rid of incompetent officers and gave the men new confidence in their commanders.

4. Ridgway has also bolstered the South Korean troops, who fight ferociously against North Koreans but flee in panic from the Chinese. Ridgway gave the South Koreans a taste of victory over the Chinese by integrating South Korean and American units and throwing them into battle side by side. Ridgway also assigned South Korean soldiers to count the Chinese dead. This has helped, but not overcome the South Koreans' phychological fear of the Chinese.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCRASTINATION

Hours—even minutes—are vital to a starving person. Yet Congress dawdled months before agreeing to consider legislation to feed the hungry mouths of India. Behind this inaction is another story of how the American people rise to the occasion when their senators and representatives fail to act.

It was a growing floodtide of gifts to the Indian embassy, from people in all parts of the United States that caused isolationists in Congress finally to consent to a vote on the food-for-India bill.

However, the isolationist bloc, led by GOP Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio, put up a vigorous battle before the legislation was finally jarred loose from its dusty pigeonhole in the House rules committee.

Another Republican, also from Ohio, Rep. John Vorys, took just the contrary view. He personally appeared before the rules committee group to urge the Indian aid measure be reported to the House floor, where members could vote for or against. Herbert Hoover also went on record with a strong endorsement of the bill.

But Congressman Brown argued: "This is another idea of Dean Acheson and the state department crowd to scatter our assets to the four winds."

"If what you say is true, then Acheson is taking his cue from a great humanitarian in your own party," shot back Democratic Rep. Ray Madden of Indiana. Madden then read Herbert Hoover's plea to aid India as a "human necessity."

Muskegon's factory of Continental Motors Corp., announced today that they had made its first first shipment of 100 light airplane motors to the Brazilian government for use in military training planes. Engines ranging from 40 to 80 horsepower were included.

Crown Prince Michael, of Rumania, 9 years old, was stricken with diphtheria. His mother, Queen Helen, estranged wife of King Carol, and his governess remained at his bedside throughout the night. Doctors have forbidden the king to visit his son because of danger of infection.

Manistique—Seniors of Manistique high school lost their usual dignity yesterday when they celebrated an annual custom, "Kids Day." Most of the girls were attired in brightly colored rompers while a few of the boys wore short trousers. It is said that the department of the seniors matched the attire.

Kefauver Report Will Expose O'Dwyer And Organized Crime All Over U. S.

By DREW PEARSON

PEARSON

The lid isn't supposed to be blown off until next week, but the long-awaited Kefauver crime report has been virtually finished and is packed with dynamite, including some TNT-laden passages on New York City's ex-mayor William O'Dwyer, now ambassador to Mexico.

This column has obtained a confidential draft of the report which turns the underworld inside out, and throws a glaring light on big time hoodlums and corrupt politicians from coast to coast.

Probably the most explosive charge is that Ambassador O'Dwyer, while district attorney and mayor, failed to take "any effective action against the top echelons of the gambling, narcotics, waterfront, murder or bookmaking rackets"; that he "impeded many promising investigations of such rackets"; and that these failures "contributed to the growth of organized crime, racketeering and gangsterism in New York City."

The report adds that "there can be no question that Frank Costello exercises a major influence upon the New York county Democratic organization, Tammany hall, because of his personal friendships and working relationships with its officers and with Democratic district leaders in 10 of the 16 Manhattan districts."

Two Big Crime Syndicates

The Kefauver committee put the finger on two major crime syndicates which dominate the underworld. They are the Frank Costello-Joe Adonis-Meyer Lasky syndicate based in New York; and the Tony Accardo-Jack Guzik-Charlie Fischetti syndicate with headquarters in Chicago. The report explains that both these "syndicates as well as other criminal gangs throughout the country, enter profitable relationships with each other. There is also a close personal, financial and social relationship between top level mobsters in different areas of the country."

The report named the Mafia, the mysterious underworld society, as the "binder which ties together the two major syndicates as well as numerous other criminal gangs throughout the country. The power of the Mafia is based on a ruthless enforcement of its edicts and its own laws of vengeance, to which have been creditably attributed literally hundreds of murders throughout the country."

Reporting on California, the crime committee declares: "The only evidence concerning direct payments of protection money to high state officials is the success story revealed by the California crime commission and repeated to the committee. Representatives of the attorney general's office of California, with the apparent blessing of Fred Howser, the attorney general, attempted to organize a statewide system of protection for slot-machine operations and the distribution of punch boards."

The report placed the responsibility for ridding the country of organized crime squarely in the hands of the public and the committee describes its "most shocking revelations" as the "extent of political corruption and connivance in facilitating and promoting organized crime. The evidence is present in four different forms:

"1. Direct bribes or protection payments are made to law enforcement officials so that they will not interfere with specific criminal activities.

"2. Political influence and pressure of important officials or political leaders is used to protect criminal activities or further the interests of criminal gangs.

"3. Law enforcement officials are found in the possession of unusual and unexplained wealth.

"4. Law enforcement officials participate directly in the business of organized crime."

Final Conclusions

The Kefauver report lays down the following general conclusions:

"1. The top gangsters in the country, despite known arrest records and well-documented criminal reputations, remain immune to prosecution and punishment, although underlings of their gangs may on occasion be prosecuted and punished. This quasi immunity of the top level mobsters can be ascribed to what is popularly known as the 'fix.' The 'fix' is not always the direct payment of money to law enforcement officials, although the committee has run across considerable evidence of such bribery. The 'fix' may also come through the acquisition of political power by contributions to political organizations, by creating economic ties with apparently respectable and reputable businessmen and lawyers, and by buying public goodwill through charitable contributions and press relations.

"2. Gambling supports bigtime racketeers and gangsterism. It provides the financial resources whereby organized criminals are converted into bigtime racketeers, political bosses, and pseudo businessmen and philantropists. Thus, the two-dollar horse bettor and the five-cent numbers player are not only suckers because they are gambling against hopeless odds, but they also provide the money which enables underworld characters to undermine our institutions.

"3. The Western Union Telegraph company in many parts of the country has not been fully cooperative with law enforcement officials who have been trying to suppress organized criminal rackets which make use of telegraph facilities. By permitting its facilities to be used by bookmakers, Western Union has given aid and comfort to those engaged in the violation of the gambling laws.

Racing Wires

"4. Bigtime bookmaking operations cannot be carried on without the rapid transmission of racing information and gambling information. This information is presently being provided by a monopoly operated by the Continental Press Service. The Continental Press Service, at critical times and crucial places where monopoly of bookmaking is at stake, yields to the domination and control of the Accardo-Guzik-Fischetti crime syndicate.

"5. There are a number of lawyers in different parts of the country whose relation to organized criminal gangs and individual mobsters passes the line of ethical representation.

"6. Some tax accountants and tax lawyers have aided mobsters and racketeers in defrauding the government by preparing and defending income tax returns which they knew to be inadequate.

"7. The committee has found considerable evidence of the infiltration by organized criminals into legitimate business, particularly in connection with the sale and distribution of liquor real estate operations, night clubs, hotels, automobile agencies, restaurants, taverns, cigarette vending companies, juke boxes, laundries, manufacture of clothing, and the transmission of racing and sporting news. In some areas of legitimate activity, the committee has found evidence of the use by gansters of the same methods of intimidation and violence as are used to secure monopolies in criminal enterprises. Racketeers also have used labor unions as fronts to enable them to exploit legitimate businessmen.

"8. In some instances, legitimate businessmen have aided the interests of the underworld, awarding lucrative contracts to gangsters and mobsters in return for help in handling employees, defeating attempts at organizing and in breaking strikes.'

Kefauver Recommends

Here are the recommendations which the committee urges:

"1. The transmission of gambling information across state lines by telegraph, telephone, radio, television or other communication facilities, should be prohibited.

"2. The transmission of bets or wagers, or the transmission of monies in payment of bets or wagers across state lines by telegraph, telephone, mail, or other facilities of interstate communication, or the U. S. mails, should be prohibited.

"3. The penalties against the illegal sale, distribution and smuggling of narcotic drugs should be considerably increased.

"4. The immigration laws should be amended so that aliens may be deported without regard to how they entered this country, where they have been convicted of a crime after entering this country, and where it is determined after an administrative hearing that they have been engaged in illegal enterprises within the previous five years.

"5. The prohibition against the transportation of slot machines in interstate commerce should be extended to include other gambling devices which are susceptible of gangster or racketeer control, such as punchboards roulette wheels, etc.

"6. The Internal Revenue laws and regulations should be amended so as to require any person who has been engaged in an illegitimate business netting in excess of $2,500 a year for any of five years previously, to file a net worth statement of all his assets.

"7. Gambling casinos should be required to file daily records of money won and lost, with the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

"8. The Bureau of Internal Revenue should enforce the regulations which require taxpayers to keep adequate books and records of income and expenses against the gangsters and racketeers who are continually flouting it."

CATCHING UP—A circuit court jury in Mackinac county recently found guilty a man who had shot and killed a woman while hunting last fall.

The court room at St. Ignace must have pulsed with the applause of hundreds of unseen hands—applause from ghostly hands of victims of hunting accidents through many years.

The circuit court judge sentenced the man to prison for a term of one to 20 years, with a recommendation of one year.

At long last the law is beginning to catch up with the trigger-happy hunter who shoots first and looks afterward.

• • •

WITHOUT DEFENSE—We are not too familiar with the facts in the Mackinac county case.

It is known the hunter pleaded not guilty to the charge and in his defense claimed he had seen a bear and shot at it. The woman, whom he claimed he had not seen, stood up suddenly in the line of fire and was fatally wounded.

Also known is the statement of the prosecution that most careful investigation of the scene of the accident revealed no sign of the tracks of a bear in the vicinity; no indication that the woman had been sitting and then stood up; no supporting evidence to show that the man did not mistake the woman for either a deer or a bear and shot her—mistakenly, it is true, but not by accident.

• • •

TOO MANY ACCIDENTS—There are too many hunting accidents and too little investigation of them, both in Michigan and elsewhere.

A couple years ago we sought to compile national figures on hunting deaths and injuries. One western state, noted for its big game hunting, and a southern state bordering the Gulf of Mexico, kept no hunting accident statistics, we were told.

In Michigan, one of the leading (if not the leading) states in the union in the number of hunting licenses issued, the responsibility for prosecution of hunters who wound or kill humans rests lightly on the shoulders of law enforcement officers.

Investigations are made, varying in thoroughness, and sometimes there is prosecution and sometimes not.

• • •

JUST TOO BAD—The crying need is for a state-wide code of law specifically designed to cope with the careless hunter.

True, the conservation department denies a license for five years to the hunter who wounds or kills another person. But this is a part-way measure, not requiring conviction but only an admission of responsibility on the part of the offending hunter.

The law could go farther and deny forever a hunting license to any persons pleading guilty to or being convicted of firing the lethal weapon.

It is well known that many hunting accidents occur now when the guilty party is never discovered. The imposition of sterner penalties would not cause more accidents to be hidden, but would weed the trigger-happy hunter out of the ranks of careful sportsmen.

• • •

WITHOUT CAUSE — There is little if any reasonable excuse for wounding or killing another person with firearms in the woods.

Rabbits, deer, bear, or ducks do not in the slightest resemble human beings. The differences is so great that any hunter, using reasonable caution, could not mistake one for the other.

Most hunting fatalities occur because some man with a gun is too eager to shoot. He shoots at what he hears, or at what he thinks he sees.

The hunter who reported getting five shots "at one I glimpsed and one I heard" was lucky not to have killed a fellow sportsman.

It sc true, and this we grant without argument, that accidents do happen. The "accidents" however, too often trace back to the hunter's carelessness.

Determination of all the facts also will determine if there has been criminal negligence on the part of the hunter. These facts, placed before a jury, will bring conviction, as the Mackinac county jury has proved.

PRONUNCIATION CLINIC

Q. Will you please put the word chauffeur through your celebrated Clinic, and give us the "correct" pronunciation? And must we, who say SHO-fer, be relegated to the realms reserved for the illiterate?—M. S.

A. The pronunciation SHO-fer is in no way illiterate. It is the Standard American pronunciation of the word. The French pronunciation, not widely used, is sho-FUR, or sho-fur.

The literal French meaning of chauffeur is "a stoker; he who maintains the fire of a forge, or of a steam engine." Automobile drivers were called chauffeurs for the reason that the first horseless carriages, originally developed in France, were steam propelled.

In 1770, a French inventor, Nicholas Cugnot, built a three-wheeled "road wagon" powered by a crude steam engine. The top speed of the vehicle was 2½ miles an hour, and, states the Encyclopedia Britannica, ". . . it had to stop every hundred feet or so to make steam." Obviously, the chauffeur was appropriately named.

In America, many of the early cars were steam driven, and all were so expensively and explosively unpredictable that it was the custom to employ drivers to tinker with, operate, and maintain the costly playthings. Chauffeur, together with other French terms, such as chassis, tonneau, cabriolet, limousine, coupe, amature, was borrowed as a designation for these daredevil drivers.

Can you make the proper distinction in the meaning of the words SHALL-WILL, and SHOULD-WOULD? If not, Mr. Colby's leaflet, C-4, will help you to get them straight. For a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, care of this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G. New York 19 N Y

Ruark Feels Sorry For Little Art MacArthur

By ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK—If there is one kid in the country for whom I feel very sorry it is little Arthur MacArthur, the general's youngun. He looks to be a nice kid but his is the tragedy of being cheated of childhood. The chore of being spawn to a demigod is the roughest of them all.

Childhood is a precious thing and should, so far as possible, belong to the child. Little Arthur's childhood is not his own. His father's circumstance forbids it. Arthur has become an unwilling celebrity; a secondhand recipient of the honors, pomp and precaution which are heaped on his old man.

The kid went to the ball game the other day, his first in this country. It was a small party, consisting of his father's aides, Horace Stoneham of the Giants, and a few adult friends. But not because of any action the boy could control, the party was immediately turned into a sort of circus.

Pelted With Presents

Reporters kept tabs on how many hot dogs he ate. His boyish comments were quoted as a gospel. The Giant and Dodger managers more or less knelt at his feet. He was pelted with gifts—balls, gloves, a Giant jacket and cap. They even had the kid throwing out a ball to start the game.

Somebody in the Giant management, with a penchant for upper-case name dropping, had the gall to announce over the public-address system that all hands should keep their seats until the MacArthur party had left the field." Hell's bells, 60 per cent of the fans didn't even know that there was a "MacArthur party" on the premises. And, in any case, a couple of cops and a couple of colonels were more than sufficient to fend off any rabid autograph morons.

One of the greater boons of being young is a sort of Tom Sawyerish enjoyment of privacy—the right to play hookey from responsibility and go swimmin' or just prowling. Because of his pappy's position young Arthur has been surrounded by the court guard since birth.

I gather that his playmates have been, of necessity, carefully screened and chosen, and the play supervised. He would never have known the horrors of being tormented by the town bully, or the brief exuberance of an unscheduled fist fight. His public manners are perfect, and his tact, public relationswise, the grave equal of an adult's.

It Ain't Good

This, I think, ain't good. I dislike excessive good manners in the very young, and poise is a product for the grownup. Thirteen is indeed a tender age for decorum in public places.

Gen. MacArthur has won a sort of earthly godliness in our time. He does not exist as other men, and has not, for a long, long time. His archfoe, the president, has succeeded in maintaining much more of a private citizen's outlook for himself and for his family. The late President Roosevelt, trussed as he was by the chains of high office, insisted on a divorcement of the presidency from his numerous, lusty childer—at least in their tenderer youth.

I am sorry for the young MacArthur because his childhood has been little more than a cutdown carbon of his father's fame. He is winning little or nothing as Art MacArthur, but his reaping esteem as the young son of a famous father. That was a nice gesture, giving him a watch in Washington, but the watch was not really a present to Arthur MacArthur. It was a gesture of adulation for the boy's old man.

Living always in the shadow of the mighty, and dining daily off reflected glory, can do pretty terrible things to the young. It can endow them with one of two complexes— one, that they're pretty hot stuff, and deserve all things from all people, or two, that they do not exist as individuals, but merely as adjuncts to a powerful personality.

Now that the kid is home, in his own country, I sure hope the old folks pop him in a school where his path will not be cleared by colonels and press attaches and guards of honor. I hope, before the years' out that he has earned the nickname of "Stinky" or "Mac", and has both given and received a black eye. On his own time.

First E-Bonds 10 Years Old

Government Works Out New Deals

WASHINGTON — (AP) — If you stepped right up and patriotically bought some of the first World War Two savings bonds — and still have 'em—you can have a little May day celebration of your own.

Series E bonds bought any time in May, 1941 are ten years old today—they mature, as the bankers say. That means you can cash them in for their full face value. Some $112,000,000 first issue series E bonds were purchased ten years ago this month.

But the government, in the interests of keeping inflationary spending down, would like you to continue the investment instead of cashing in.

To make it worthwhile, the government has worked out these two deals:

1. Keep the matured bonds and continue having interest accumulate on them at the rate of 2½ per cent (simple interest) for each additional year up to 7½ years, or 2.9 per cent interest (compounded) for a full ten years more.

2. Exchange them for series G savings bonds, which run for 12 years and bear simple interest of 2½ per cent. Treasury checks for the amount of interest due will arrive by mail each six months.

The G bonds are expected to attract people who want to spend their interest while retaining their investment. The E bond retention offer is aimed at those who prefer to build up their investment by letting the interest pile up.

Penalties Up To Life Voted For Subversion By Senate In Lansing

LANSING—(AP)—The senate today voted penalties ranging up to life imprisonment for subversion.

Approving and sending the bill to the house, the chamber authorized the courts to impose any prison sentence up to life in a measure implementing a constitutional amendment approved by the voters last fall to define subversion as attempting or advocating the overthrow of the government.

The bill also covers the crime of concealing knowledge of subversion and brings corporations and their officers under the law, authorizing the cancellation of corporation franchises if they aid subversive activities.

New Election Law In France Aimed At Curbing Communism

PARIS—(AP)—Premier Henri Queuille's campaign for national elections in mid-June gathered speed today as the national assembly approved a new election law designed to reduce Communist representation.

The assembly voted the bill in a 339 to 251 confidence vote shortly after midnight. The government vote was 28 more than the absolute majority needed to override any future veto by the upper house council of the republic.

Elections for a new parliament —the first since 1946—probably will be held June 10 or the following Sunday, June 17.

Albion And Alma Split Twin Bill

ALMA—(AP)—Alma and Albion divided a baseball doubleheader here Monday.

Alma's Scots took the first game 2-0 with a two-run seventh inning while Albion claimed the nightcap 5-1 on a five-run eighth inning.

A triple by Richard Garrett drove in both the Alma runs in the first game. Pitcher Chuck Saxton held the Britons to four hits.

In the second game the key Albion blows were singles by Bob Pinchney and Bob Betz, mixed with three walks, a passed ball and a wild pitch.

Alma now has won two and lost two in MIAA conference play. Albion has a 2-3 record.

Sluice Gates Cut Off To Dry Two Rivers For Reds

ed Red pockets were hit by fire bombs.

It was a different story Monday when the Chinese masses were threatening to sweep on Seoul.

Allied big guns massed in the Seoul suburbs pumped thousands of shells into the hills to the north where the Communists were swarming. Warships off Inchon port laid down a heavy curtain of fire northwest of the old South Korean capital.

Airmen Set Record

And allied planes mounted "the greatest air effort of the Korean war."

Far Eastern air forces reported 1,277 Sorties, a new air record, "smashed a determined large scale Communist supply build up."

Red Jets made a brief challenge of allied war supremacy Tuesday. One was probably shot down and four were damaged.

The battle was fought over northwestern Korea between 25 Russian made Mig-15s and 25 American F-86 Sabre Jets. The battle started at 40,000 feet and swirled down to 2,000 feet where the Reds broke off and streaked back across the Yalu River to Manchuria.

The nineday toll of Reds mounted toward 75,000 casualties.

Behind the smoke screen of smudge pots the Chinese appeared to be shifting their main force for a new stab over familiar battlegrounds. With the shift their next blow might fall around Hongchon in the center of the Peninsula.

Respite Welcome

What Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, U. S. 8th Army commander, will do about stopping them there was not mentioned. He said he would stop them north of the Han and keep them out of Seoul. And he did.

From the central front, (AP) correspondent George McArthur said the Reds were hungry, ragged, and short of supplies.

The respite was welcome to allied fighting men.

In the lull censorship was relaxed to permit correspondents to report it was the U. S. First Marine Division and a British Brigade that checked the crushing Red smash at the center of the allied line April 22 and 23.

One marine officer, Lt. Col. Webb D. Sawyer of Alexandria, Va., said the fighting in checking the breakthrough by 140,000 Chinese was worse than anything the marines saw in northeast Korea last winter.

One marine said their machine gunners killed Reds at the rate of 20 a minute but the Reds charged at the rate of 25 a minute.

High praise for the British 27th Brigade came from John Castle, representing the U. S. embassy in Korea. The 27th, composed of British, Canadian, Australian and New Zealanders, plugged the allied gap north of Kapyong in the center when the South Koreans collapsed.

The 27th took the full assault of another Chinese thrust on the west. One of its units, the Gloucestershire regiment, was surrounded and hacked to pieces.

Explosion Prevented In Big Owosso Fire

OWOSSO—(AP)—Owosso tensed for a fiery explosion that never came.

A fire destroyed a petroleum products warehouse here yesterday, sending smoke and flames 300 feet into the air, and visible 13 miles away.

The blaze was only two feet from tanks containing 70,000 gallons of hi-octane gasoline.

But firemen concentrated their hoses on the tanks of the distributors, John B. Howe and Sons, and kept them from buckling.

Ex-Mayor Accused Of Aiding Crime In New York City

still strong in the councils of the Democratic party organization of New York county."

The senators devoted about 35 pages of the 195-page report to their New York City investigation, where O'Dwyer and Costello were the major witnesses at hearings viewed on television by upwards of 20,000,000 persons.

The report, rushed to completion late last night, also asked Congress for a batch of laws aimed at throttling the nation's big crime and gambling syndicates by cutting the profits out from under them.

"Gambling profits are the principal support of big-time racketeering and gangsterism," the senator said.

Money Buys Power

They recommended legislation to outlaw transmission across state lines of information for illegal gambling, to prohibit illegal gambling losses or expenses from being deducted for income tax purposes, to deny use of the mails or other interstate communications to make or pay off bets, to ban the interstate traismission of punchboards, roulette wheels and other gaming devices and to require gambling cusinos to keep detailed records of money won and lost.

With a reminder that "Money is the key to power in the underworld," the committee also called for tougher tax laws and penalties to trip up gangsters, including requirements for full records of income and expenses and statements of "net worth."

The senators commended the internal revenue bureau for setting up a special fraud squad and urged the justice department to create a racket squad "to clean the country of racketeers, gangsters and organized criminal gangs."

They said, however, that the primary responsibility for cleaning up the underworld rests with state and local officials.

Corruption Grows

Other proposals asked stiffer penalties for dope peddling, tightening of immigration laws to rid the country of undesirable aliens, measures to eliminate racketeers from the liquor and transportation industries and bigger staffs for federal law enforcement agencies, especially the narcotics bureau.

The committee also recommended creation of a federal crime commission, with Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) dissenting. He said he feared it might lead to creation of a national police force. The committee said this was the only part of the report on which the five members were not unanimous.

A number of suggestions also were advanced for action by state and local governments to break up underworld operations. Although the committee said the federal government can help, it stressed that crime "must be attacked primarily at the local level."

The committee said "The most shocking revelations" of its nation-wide probe, authorized by the Senate almost exactly a year ago, were "the extent of official corruption and connivance in facilities and promoting organized crime."

The senators said they found this corruption and connivance at all levels of government—federal, state and local.

Betty Jameson Leads The Babe By 2 Strokes

FRESNO, Calif. —(AP)— Betty Jameson was the pace setter and Babe Didrikson Zaharias runnerup as the field teed off today in the last round of the Valley women's $3,000 open golf tournament.

Miss Jameson, former national open champion, had rounds of 72-78—150 behind her, two strokes to the good over Mrs. Zaharias, the tournament favorite.

The finest comeback of the tournament saw Miss Jameson chalk up a one-under men's par 35 for the back nine of yesterday's second round.

Patty Berg of Minneapolis, dean of the women pros, was fairly well up with a score of 78-77—155.

Flying Teacher Safe In Alaska

Trio Missing 8 Days In Snowy Wastes

ANCHORAGE, Alaska—(AP)—A school teacher and two children, missing for eight days in snowy Alaska wastes, reached Anchorage safely yesterday.

The three told of subsisting for the better part of a week on meager rations after making a forced landing in their plane.

They are Bert Gann, Bethel high school teacher; his six-year-old daughter, Linda, and Alex hately, 16-year-old Bethel schoolboy.

Search planes had hunted them since April 22 when they started the hop from McGrath to Anchorage.

Their only food when they made their forced landing consisted of a can of orange juice, a can of potato chips, a half sandwich, two packs of chewing gum and a candy bar.

The party made its landing in bad weather on Cook Inlet and hiked for five days along the shore before finding a cabin for shelter.

Then Friday they encountered a trapper who took them to the village of Tynoek. There they were able to get a ride into Anchorage with a pilot making a mail flight. All were reported in good physical condition.

Royalty On TV But King Stays Home

LONDON—(AP)—Most of Britain's royal family did a few turns on television last night. Mama nodded graciously. One sister smiled. The other toyed with a cigarette. Papa stayed home.

Queen Elizabeth, wearing an oyster white crinoline gown and a diamond coronet, stole the show at a needlework exhibition at St. James Palace. She toured the exhibition while an announcer described the needlework in hushed tones.

After a short interruption for the news, Britain's lone TV station went back for more of the family, this time at a fashionable Mayfair ball.

Princess Elizabeth was there, smiling happily from her table. Princess Margaret sat alongside, nonchalantly fingering a cigarette in her left hand.

Elizabeth's husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, peered from behind a curtain with a suprised look, then took a place beside his wife and beamed politely through the rest of the program.

King George spent the night at Buckingham Palace.

Free Europe Beams Powerful Radio To Red Czechoslovakia

MUNICH, Germany—(AP)—Radio free Europe began beaming its powerful transmitter to Communist Czechoslovakia today "to undermine still further the secretly tottering structure of the Kremlin tyrants."

C. D. Jackson, president of the National Committee for a Free Europe, which built the new 135,000-watt station, declared that radio free Europe's job is "to make evident to all that this world cannot exist half free and half slave, and that freedom and not slavery shall triumph."

The big new station, nearly three times more powerful than any in America, will broadcast to Czechoslovakia eleven and a half hours daily.

Its program personnel will be made up largely of Czechs who recently escaped from their Red-ruled country.

Reserve Clause Attacked Again

UTICA, N. Y.—(AP)—Organized baseball and its controversial reserve clause have been haled into court again—this time by Jim Prendergast, former Syracuse pitcher.

Prendergast is suing baseball officials for $150,000 on the ground that reserve clauses in contracts during his career "continually tended materially to hamper" him in "negotiating for salary and employment."

He contends the reserve clause is monopolistic and a violation of the anti-thrust laws.

Prendergast, a 33-year-old lefthander, was transferred by the Syracuse chiefs of the International league to the Beaumont club of the Texas league on April 25. He refused to report to the New York Yankee farm club and has not signed a 1951 contract.

Forest Fires Gain

LANSING—(AP)—The conservation department today reported 36 forest fires which damaged 521 acres in the past week. This was the worst weekly record of the season. It brought the season's total so far to 143 fires damaging 1,743 acres. Last year at this time, 169 fires had damaged 1,246 acres.

Police Officers Finish Six Weeks Training Program

Four new police officers have completed a six-weeks training course and are now assigned to full time duty, Safety Director Glen Leonard has announced.

The officers are Ed Gadnais, James Tweedy, Roy Christensen and Ralph Johnson. Johnson sustained a broken collarbone in the training program and is on limited duty, Leonard said.

The officers trained four hours daily, six days a week, for the six weeks period and devoted the remainder of their working time to routine police work.

All qualified in marksmanship, he said.

Marines Stave Off Disaster In Korea By Blocking Reds

TOKYO — (AP) — American marines and British commonwealth soldiers saved United Nations forces from possible disaster at the start of the Reds' big spring offensive in Korea.

The army disclosed today that the leathernecks plugged a hole on the central front and slugged it out with hordes of Chinese infantrymen.

The leathernecks held the night of April 22, beating back wave after wave of Chinese, after the marine flank was exposed by collapse of a South Korean division on the right.

The U. S. Eighth army identified the marines and disclosed the role that had been kept secret by censorship.

Lt. Col. Phillip W. Hutton, chief of the Eighth army's security division, said stories on the action and how the line was reestablished will be passed shortly by censors.

Collapse of the South Korean division enabled the Reds to make a breakthrough and rip a 10-mile-wide hole in the Allied line south of Kumhwa.

The hole was not patched up until the Reds reached seven miles south of the 38th parallel near Kapyong.

Bill To Bring Back 'Model' State Prison Commission Beaten

LANSING— (AP) —The senate's happiness at the current lack of scandal in Michigan's prison system last night caused the defeat of a bill to restore the state's former "model" corrections commission system.

By a vote of 18 to 10 the chamber sent back to committee the Greene Bill to abolish the present one-man corrections commissioner, appointed by the governor, and return to the 1937 commission plan.

The latter was junked by former governor Kim Sigler as the aftermath of a scandal at the state prison of Southern Michigan and the mass resignation of the then commission in protest against Sigler's handling of the case.

Senators G. Elwood Bonine (R-Vandalia) and Harry F. Hittle (R-East Lansing), who contributed to the investigations of the prison, said they were impressed that State Corrections Commissioner Earnest C. Brooks, a Democrat, was doing a good job, had raised staff morale and had eliminated departmental friction.

Grand Rapids Tops Central Standings

(By The Associated Press)

The Grand Rapids Jets grabbed the Central baseball league lead from Dayton last night with a muddy 14 to 8 pasting of the Flint Arrows.

Dayton meanwhile was dropping a 7-2 decision to the Muskegon Clippers. In the other league game Saginaw's Jack Rabbits beat out the Charleston Senators, 9 to 5.

The game at Grand Rapids was featured by homers by Emil Borgini and Ed Kneuper for Grand Rapids.

In Dayton, Clipper righthander Emil Patrick gave the Indians only four hits and so salvaged one game of the three-game series for the Michigan team.

Saginaw rammed across six runs on six hits in the fourth ininug to beat Charleston. Neither starting pitcher lasted.

Derby Favorite Gets Test Today

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (AP) — This part of the world will get its first peek today at Battle Morn in action—the horse many believe will be made favorite for the Kentucky Derby.

Battle Morn makes his first start on Kentucky soil in the one-mile $10,000-added Derby trial, a sharpener for Derby candidates.

With hot weather and a fast track, various Derby candidates continued to show plenty of zip in workouts. The flashiest job was a 2:04 3/5 for the mile and one quarter by C. V. Whitney's Mameluke.

Repetoire, winner of the Chesapeake and Wood memorial, worked a slow mile and a quarter in 2:14 3/5. However, this colt never is extended in his workouts.

Seizure Of Oil Voted By Iran

Giant British-Owned Fields Taken Over

TEHRAN, Iron—(AP)—Iran nationalized its giant British-owned oil industry—the world's fourth largest producer—last night, but Premier Mohammed Mossadegh gave little indication how he planned to effect the forced takeover or run the $500,000,000 industry.

The Senate unanimously and on schedule ratified the seizure of the Anglo-Iranian Oil company, sole developer of the rich fields in this strategic southern neighbor of the Soviet Union.

The nationalization, already approved by the Majlis (lower house of Parliament), becomes effective on promulgation by Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi. He has no veto power.

Presumably negotiations will be necessary to work out an arrangement for any British operation of the properties under Iranian supervision. In London the British government, which owns 51 per cent of Anglo-Iranian, and officials of the company anxiously studied the situation. British Ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd was expected to confer soon with Mossadegh concerning future discussions.

Britain has protested to the Iranian government that the nationalization and cancellation of Britain's oil concession violates international law.

Joseph Harris Loses His Auto Driving License

Driving privileges of Joseph Harris, Wilson, were revoked today by Secretary of State Fred M. Alger under the state financial responsibility law. Alger directed Ervin A. Hassel field officer for the secretary of state, to seize Harris' motor vehicle chauffeur's license. He carried no insurance on his car.

Harris faces trial in the May term of Menominee circuit court on charge of being the driver of a hit-run car that fatally injured Kay Langley, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Langley, Spalding, in an accident in that village about 9 p. m. on April 3. Two others, Gail Langley, 16, sister of the dead girl, and Judith Nowack, 14, were injured.

The three girls were struck by a hit-run car while walking to their homes in Spalding from the Midway theater. They were on their left side of the road and the car crashed into them from behind on the shoulder of the road.

Harris is at liberty in $2,500 bail pending trial in circuit court opening in two weeks.

CITY OF ESCANABA

Imported Brooms May Be Sweeping Country

The wives and witches of America will be buying and flying more brooms from overseas this year than ever before.

The ladies aren't calculated to like them very much, however. Sweepers made from imported broomcorn are more brittle, less durable than those fashioned from stocks of U. S. corn-straw. Nevertheless, the price of both foreign and domestic brooms is likely to be about the same—highest in history.

Ever since World War II, notes the National Geographic Society, production of American broomcorn has slowly but steadily declined. Increased importation of foreign broomcorn became necessary after the smallest crop on record was brought in last year. Bad weather joined with a cut in acreage to trim the harvest to a meager 25,900 tons, slightly over half of 1949's crop.

Even with favorable weather conditions the future of the home-grown, broom brush appears uncertain. After the war American housewives jumped at the chance to buy mechanical sweepers. Brushes and brooms made of plastic and nylon also flooded the market to win a measure of popularity. Broomcorn farmers noted uneasily the consumer trend, and many decided to take action.

Switch to Wheat

By 1947 farmers across the broomcorn country — Oklahoma, Colorado, Texas, New Mexico, Kansas and Illinois—had switched in considerable numbers to wheat and other crops which, unlike broomcorn, benefited from the government price support program. Also unlike broomcorn, wheat is reaped mechanically and poses few labor problems.

Broomcorn, closely resembling Indian corn in the field, is not an easy crop to grow. Deep, rich soil is required to produce the tall, solid stalks which rise from 10 to 14 feet high, topped by tassels of seed-bearing straw clusters ranging up to three feet long.

Harvest time is at hand when the tassels are fully developed but still green in color. They must be gathered and housed within three days after the ripening point is reached. Broomcorn from Europe and South America is considered inferior for broom making because the straw is permitted to remain on the stalk until the seed matures. By then the straw is discolored but the seed serves on additional use as feed grain for animals.

Distaff Rebellion

Originally native to tropical Asia and Africa, broomcorn belongs with the sweet sorhums in the family of Holcus fodder grasses. Tradition has it that Benjamin Franklin planted the first broomcorn seed in America after he discovered it on a brush imported by a neighbor. The first reported U. S. commercial crop was produced in 1797 in the Connecticut River valley near Hadley, Massachusetts.

Broomcorn moved west with the pioneers and by 1830 had found ideal growing conditions in Coles County, Illinois. For nearly half a century Illinois led the world in broomcorn acreage and total production—a position rudely undermined about 1900 by none other than the farmer's own wives.

The feminine helpmates, whose many duties included cooking, rebelled against boarding the huge broomcorn harvest crews during cutting season. By the time hard roads and automobiles made commuting possible for the harvesters, the center of broomcorn production had moved on to its present location on an arc around the Texas Panhandle.

You get the relaxing comfort of extra head room, leg room and shoulder room. You never feel cramped or crowded. And Dodge gives you the priceless safety of "Watchtower" visibility ... of big Safe-Guard Hydraulic Brakes with larger braking surface for smooth, sure stops.

Dodge Gyro-Matic is the lowest priced automatic transmission on the market. It lets you drive without shifting ... yet it is simpler, safer—gives you full control of your car under all driving conditions. Come in—see and drive today's big Dodge.

Fashion Model Is Good Start For Any Career

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK — (AP) — Fashion modeling, it seems, is a wonderful springboard for almost any kind of career these days.

Among today's most popular lens targets are apt to be many of tomorrow's feminine standouts in the arts and business, judging by the records of their predecessors.

A large number, of course, moved on to the theater and the movies, including Barbara Stanwyck, Gene Tierney, Paulette Goddard, Jennifer Jones, Joan Caulfield, Kay Francis, Lucille Ball, Meg Mundy and Nancy Kelly.

The greatest number however, leaped from modeling to matrimony and motherhood. Frances Westcott married Edgar Bergen. Oona O'Neill, daughter of the author, was a fashion model before she married Charlie Chaplin.

Marriage and Career

Others have managed to combine successfully marriage and careers

Jinx Falkenburg is among the most versatile and busiest of the model alumnae. Jinx hit the nation's bill board and magazines as a brewery's girl of the year. She took a fling at the stage and screen—and then retired to become the wife of newspaper and magazine executive Tex McCrary. Shortly the couple blossomed out as a radio husband-and-wife team, picked up a daily television show and launched a joint daily newspaper column. They have two boys, who occasionally share the spotlight with their parents.

Another radio husband-and-wife team is former high-fashion model Betsey Drake and actor Cary Grant.

Blonde Kyle McDonald was one of the first TV stars, but had a successful intermediate career as a concert singer. She found her husband in television: he's an advertising man.

Became Writer

Babs Lee branched out from modelling to twin careers as an advertising executive and as a successful writer of detective stories. Currently she's a fashion director for a large advertising agency (Young and Rubicam).

Tall, blond Lynne Gilmore used modeling as a means to get into the restaurant buisness—currently she owns two big dining places in Manhattan. A Brooklyn girl, she was brought up in the restaurant business, learning its secrets from her father. The depression spoiled the family business and Lynne went ito modeling to acquire a nestegg for a restaurant of her own. Today with the help of her accountant-husband, she's a very successful businesswoman.

Roleo, Clean-Up Drive C-H Topics

It was the concensus at the Coffee Hour Monday morning that a 'low budget' roleo could be staged this summer and the suggestion was made that a spot survey be made to learn if it indicates sufficient contributions could be obtained to finance the event.

It is believed that a straight birling program, stripped of some of the frills which have marked it in other years, can be put on for $1,000.

It was pointed out that it would come in a week in which some 400 outdoor writers from all over the nation would be in Delta county and that publicity of untold value may be obtained through the event.

Gladstone's annual cleanup campaign will get under way next week and it was decided to enlist the cooperation of the City of Gladstone to furnish trucks to remove leaves, building materials and other matter which are not included in the weekly garbage and ash pickup. This cooperation is to be given, it is learned.

A schedule for the pickup of grass, leaves and other debris will be announced later.

Civil Defense Now Permanent

Full Cooperation Is Urged By Speaker

Civil defense is with us today and very likely will be with us permently, Prof. Gunther C. Meyland, Marquette, told Rotarians yesterday noon at the weekly luncheon meeting.

In most cities of any size it is being put on a regular departmental basis and the city engages and pays a director of civil defense. Apathy on the part of the public has handicapped organization of the program despite it's importance, the speaker said.

This is due to some extent to Communist literature which spreads the theme "it can't happen here."

The speaker, who has been connected with the work since 1942, said that even if we were to admit that the chances of Gladstone being bombed were slight that the program is still important in order to provide mutual aid for other cities in the area which may be bombed.

He mentioned the "walking blood vein" and told of the plans to type the blood of all persons in this area with the idea of saving lives in the event of atomic bombing nearby. Replacement of radioactive blood is one of the surest ways of saving the bombing victim's life, he declared.

The speaker attended the demonstration or experiment at the Soo recently and said that the thing which stood out in his mind was the Pickford group which rushed into the 'stricken city with a first aid crew headed by two registered nurses and in short order had an excellent first aid station set up on a vacant lot and were ready to receive patients.

Prof. Meyland stressed the importance of the civil defense program and urged whole-hearted cooperation.

Women's Dean To Speak Here

Talks To Students Wednesday P. M.

Miss Deborah Bacon, who assumed her duties as dean of women and assistant professor of English at the University of Michigan last fall, will speak to Manistique high school students at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon, May 2, in the auditorium.

A native of New Haven, Connecticut, Miss Bacon's field of academic specialization is English literature. She has had many years of professional experience in nursing and public health, including three years in the Army nurse corps with an evacuation hospital attached to General Patton's Third Army.

Miss Bacon attended St. Timothy's School in Baltimore, Maryland, and entered nurses' training at Bellevue Hospital in New York in 1930. In 1936-37, she went to Fort Yukon, Alaska, with an Episcopal Missionary hospital. Returning to the United States the following year, she enrolled as a student at New York University and in 1941 received the degree of bachelor of science in public health education. She spent the year, 1941-42, in Oneida, Kentucky, as superintendent of nurses in a hospital project directed by the U. S. Public Health Service.

From 1942-46 Miss Bacon was in the Army nurse corps. Her unit was an evacuation hospital attached to the Third Army, and it landed at Omaha Beach and served through France, Germany, and Czechoslovakia. This hospital also gave suport to the 101st Airborne in the Battle of the Bulge.

After the close of the European war, Miss Bacon attended classes at the Sorbonne in Paris for 10 weeks before returning to the United States. She then enrolled at Columbia University Graduate School where she pursued her studies in English literature. In 1948 she received the master of arts degree with first class honors, writing her thesis on the poetry of John Donne.

For the past two years, while working toward the doctoral degree, Miss Bacon held a fellowship from the American Council of Learned Societies, which enabled her to spend six months in England to study on her thesis problem. The thesis is a study of the psychoanalytical approach to nonsense literature such as that of Lewis Carroll. She received the doctor of philosophy degree from Columbia University in 1950.

25 Starved Deer Found

Animals Perished Eating Hay Diet

The bodies of 25 small deer, reported to have starved to death, were found last weekend about a mile west of the northwest corner of Blaney Park preserve, it is reported by Carl Makel, local state forester.

The dead deer were found by Al Hedberg who jobbed in the area during the winter.

The dead animals were scattered over an area of about 20 acres where a quantity of hay, used in feeding horses during the logging job, had been left. Two of the deer were found dead in an outdoor manger, still containing a quantity of hay. Other animals also died close to piles of hay.

In explaining why the deer starved to death while eating hay, Makel said that the animals, like human beings, require a variety in their diet, and cannot subsist on one item alone.

The deer collected in the area last fall to eat the tops of fallen trees during the cutting operations. When cutting was completed the deer had no food except the hay. Being small they would have had trouble browsing in swamps where large deer assembled, Makel said.

Death of the deer has been reported to Otto DeWaard, of Newberry, district game manager for the department of conservation.

Ishpeming Track Team Faces Eskymos Saturday

Escanaba high school's track team, victorious in an informal meet last Friday against Stephenson, will meet Ishpeming here Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in its first "official" meet.

The meet is expected to give Coaches Henry Wylie and Steve Baltic a better line on their material. In the Stephenson meet, Dic (Doc) Shomin was outstanding, winning four firsts, and Tom Smith added nine points.
firsts, and Tom Smith added nine points.

Coach Wylie has a strong contingent of veteran distance men this year, including Seniors Dave Zerbel and Dick Cota, quarter milers; Juniors Glen Larsen, Brian Corcoran and Dave Gasman in the mile and Junior Bill Fallmer in the quarter.

Good Distance Men

Zerbel, Larsen, Gasman and Corcoran won their letters in cross country for work as four of the first five boys on the team that won the U. P. cross country title last year. In addition Bob Vadnais and Cleve Moore, juniors and Harland Yelland, sophomore, won minor letters as members of the same team and are counted on to add points to the track team.

Other likely distance prospects are Bert Krueger, senior; John Connelly and Ray Richards, juniors; and Fred Paulson, Gerald Nichol and Jim McCormick, sophomores.

Ishpeming is expected to send a strong team here Saturday. Among its top men are Nault in the hurdles, Dubinski and Sharland in the dashes, Wuorenma in the quarter, Bjork and Lemin in the distances, Johnson and Marietti in the shot and Lemin in the high jump.

Ishpeming's half mile relay team defeated the crack Marquette team.

Little League Help Voted By Jaycees

In line with their accelerated youth program, the Escanaba Junior Chamber of Commerce has voted to aid in the promotion of the Little League baseball program beginning this spring in Escanaba, Jaycee President Don Guindon said today.

The Junior Chamber will provide safety features, such as batting helmets required by the Little League, and will pay half of the group insurance policy, which includes the tryouts, regular season, tournaments, players, managers, coaches, scorekeepers and umpires.

Also to aid in the guidance and promotion of the league, the Jaycee youth committee, headed by Frank Neumeier, will serve on the league's managing personnel board.

Working in conjunction with the City recreation program, the eight to 12-year-old league will open its season June 9 with a four-club circuit. Teams will be sponsored by the Rotary club, Lions club, St. Joseph Boosters and Delta Hardware.

Wing Defenseman Wins Byng Trophy

MONTREAL —(AP) — Leonard (Red) Kelly of Detroit won a double honor when he was awarded the National hockey league's Lady Byng trophy for the 1950-51 season.

Besides polling 31 of a possible 54 first place ballots from voting sportswriters and broadcasters, the 24-year-old Red Wing ace was only the second defenseman in 27 years to take the trophy, awarded for "sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct." Results of the poll were announced last night.

Trade, Giant Win Big Baseball Talk

(By The Associated Press)

The biggest trade of the season and the end of the New York Giants' victory drought put a new complexion to the major league baseball races today as eastern and western teams came to grips for the first time.

The Giants ended a crushing 11-game losing streak last night by beating their arch rivals, the Brooklyn Dodgers, 8-5, before a capacity throng of 33,962 at Ebbets field. It was the only game in the majors.

There was no hooting or back slapping in the Giant clubhouse after the victory. "It's been a long dry spell," Manager Leo Durocher said with a wry smile.

But the Giants have a long way to go before they can live up to their winter book rating as pennant contenders. They are in last place with three victories and 12 defeats, nine games off the .500 mark.

Durocher's athletes return to the Polo grounds tonight where they open a ten-game stand against the western clubs, Chicago, Pittsburgh. St. Louis and Cincinnati.

Last night the Giants went to town early, scoring all of their runs in the first two innings against Cris Van Cuyk, Earl Mossor and Joe Hatten.

Sal Maglie started for the Giants and lingered until the sixth when Sheldon Jones came on to stamp out a rally. The Dodgers outhit the Giants, 10-8. Three of the Dodgers' blows were home runs by Gene Hermanski, Jackie Robinson and Duke Snyder.

Biggest Trade

The biggest trade of the year was engineered by Cleveland, Chicago and Philadelphia of the American league and it involved seven players.

Cleveland considerably strengthened its pennant outlook by acquiring lefthander Lou Brissie from the A's. The Indians have been seeking a starting lefthander for a long time to go along with their big four of Bob Lemon, Bob Feller, Early Wynn and Mike Garcia, all righthanders.

The three-cornered deal sent catcher Ray Murray, pitcher Sam Zoldak and outfielders Gus Zernial and Dave Philley to the Athletics, outfielder Paul Lehner and infielder-outfielder Orestes Minoso to Chicago and Brissie to Cleveland.

Line score:

New York	620 000 000—8	8	1
Brooklyn	210 001 010—5	10	0

Maglie, Jones (6) and Westrum; Van Cuyk, Mossor (1), Hatten (1), Labine (3), Haugstad (5), Erskine (8) and Edwards.

(Only game scheduled)

Joe Louis Set For Agramonte

DETROIT—(AP)—Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis expects to be a busy gent tomorrow.

The aging ex-champ fights Cuba's Omelio Agramonte again tomorrow night. Earlier in the day he hopes to lay out plans beyond that.

Louis' managers have a date to talk with the International Boxing Club about a September bout with champion Ezzard Charles.

Joe was emphatic.

"I want to sign for the Charles fight, not talk about it," Louis, now a weathered 36-year-old, said yesterday as he closed training for Agramonte.

"If we sign for it in September, then I'll go ahead with plans for another fight in June and probably another in August," he added.

In preparing for Aramonte, Louis has boxed 43 rounds. He has turned in lots of roadwork and expects to weigh in at around 210 pounds.

He has varied his old flat-footed killer's shuffle for a new tiptoe stance. The idea is that this might speed up his reflexes.

Agramonte is expected to weigh around 194. He lost a 10-round decision to Louis in February.

Hogan Only Interested In Players Willing To Work

First of a series written for NEA Service

By BEN HOGAN
U. S. Open Champion

I divide golfers who take lessons generally into three classes, as follows:

1. The student willing to work, take the proper instructions and carry out the advice given him by the professional
2. The player who is fairly good, but won't do the necessary work to improve.
3. The trick player. This is the weekend player. He comes out to the club, wants a few tricks every weekend, Friday afternoons or Saturday mornings, so that it will get him by the weekend he is going to play.

The last-named is very prevalent

He is not too interested, will always tell you he plays only for the companionship and exercise.

I don't believe that is true. Anyone who plays is always concerned with his score.

The truth is that he just doesn't want to put in the effort to improve

It is the job of the professional to try and convert disinterested players into the class that is willing to work to improve. That is just about the toughest job one could imagine.

As I said at my clinic at the P.G.A.'s annual meeting in Chicago, my hypothetical pupil is the kind of fellow who wants to learn.

I don't like, or want, any part of those other two fellows.

Starting to teach a newcomer, or an old-timer for that matter, it should be impressed upon him that the observer can better correct the swing of a player than the player himself.

He can see the entire swing, note errors.

The player does not know just exactly what he looks like when he hits the ball.

The player only goes through what I call feelings. I more or less feel my swing as I hit the ball.

I never try to go through any mechanical motions.

It would be much too difficult.

I would have very little power if I did.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?—"Anyone who plays is always concerned with his score," points out Ben Hogan. (NEA).

NEXT: Harold Sampson, former chairman of the P.G.A. teaching committee, says there is no mystery about the stroke.

Three-Way Swap Gives Cleveland Big Boost

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Big Lou Brissie brings his southpaw speed into the Cleveland Indians' wigwam today, and top Tribe officials now think their club has what it takes to cop the pennant.

Orestes Minoso

The Indians have four fine righthanders but a championship club needs a good leftie, and Cleveland's General Manager Hank Greenberg has tried for months to get one.

He got one yesterday in the three-club, seven-player deal that pried Brissie away from the Philadelphia Athletics. To do it, he gave the Chicago White Sox Arestes Minoso, a 27-year-old Cuban rookie infielder he thinks will become one of the game's great players.

But, says Hank:

"It's the kind of a deal a club makes when it's going all-out for the pennant. Brissie certainly improves our prospects of winning this year. And even if we don't, we've got a fellow young enough (Brissie will be 27 next month) to help us for at least the next five years."

Greenberg said no cash was involved in this first important player deal of the season. In addition to moving Brissie and Minoso, the three-cornered swap did this:

Sent outfielder Paul Lehner, 30, to Chicago from Philadelphia where he hit .309 last season.

Put Gus Zernial and Dave Philley, Chicago outfielders, and a Cleveland battery of southpaw Sam Zoldak and catcher Ray Murray on the Athletics' roster.

Brissie Is Key Man

Brissie, the key man in the deal, won seven and lost 19 for the Athletics last year, a poor one for him compared with his 14-10 and 18-16 record with the second division A's in 1948 and 1949.

The Indians are banking that a change of scenery and the incentive of being with a pennant contender will help the hard-throwing southpaw.

Brissie called it a "lucky break—going from last place right up to first place."

"I only hope I can help the Indians win the pennant," he added.

A fairly general reaction to the trade was summed up by Manager Steve O'Neill who brought his Boston Red Sox here last night. He commented:

"The Indians got themselves a pretty good pitcher. I guess it was a good deal all around."

Lopez Pleased

The three managers directly concerned had this to say:

Al Lopez, Cleveland: "We needed a left-hander pitcher badly, and I think we got a good one. If he's as good as I hear he is, then our staff is all set."

Paul Richards, Chicago: "Minoso is the kind of player you need to win pennants. He's the guy we wanted. He'll show them something."

Jimmy Dykes, Philadelphia: "We didn't want to let Brissie go, but we had to give up something to get something. We wanted outfielders who could give us power. I've always liked Zernial. He will be a constant threat."

13 Are Indicted; CCNY Quits Garden

NEW YORK—(AP)—City College of New York, its great cinderella team already shattered by the game-fixing scandal, saw the door slam today on bigtime basketball.

The New York board of higher education ruled that CCNY and other municipal colleges won't be permitted to play in Madison Square Garden or "any other commercially operated establishments."

This had the immediate effect of reducing the Beavers, the only team ever to win the two big national tournaments in a single season, to a secondary status.

Has Small Gym

"If we can't play in the large arenas naturally we can't play a bigtime schedule," said Coach Nat Holman, the onetime Celtic star.

CCNY's gym seats only about 1100.

The ban on Garden games followed by a few hours the indictment of 12 former basketball players involved in the betting scandal, including four CCNY stars.

Also affected by the order were Brooklyn, Queens and Hunter colleges but these aren't Garden principals.

St. John's, Manhattan and New York university have decided to continue to play at the Garden under a new arangement which gives them a bigger hand in the operations.

Bribes Total $40,750

Yesterday's indictments covered only players accused of bribery or conspiracy in connection with games played during the past season.

Eleven are accused of pocketing bribes totalling $40,750 and the 12th, Connie Schaff of NYU, is accused of trying to bribe other players. Also indicted was the alleged fixer, Salvatore Sollazo.

Also indicted were Adolph Bigos, Eddie Gard, Leroy Smith, Sherman White, Nathan Miller, Richard Fuertado and Louis Lipman, all of Long Island university. LIU has quit intercollegiate basketball.

Powers Tips Channing By 8-5 Score

CHANNING — Powers high school baseball team chalked up its second win of the season here yesterday in defeating Channing, 8-5, behind the three-hit pitching of three hurlers.

The only hits Channing got were three singles in the first inning off Richard Bruce, Powers freshman. With the help of errors, they produced three runs. But John Henderson replaced Bruce and held the locals hitless the rest of the way until the seventh when, with one man out, Bob Lawrence took over and got the side out.

Henderson struck out seven, Bruce and Lawrence one each. Andeson, Channing pitcher, allowed only six hits and struck out 13 but he walked eight and got some bad fielding suport.

Don O'Neill led the Powers attack with a double and single and Dave Lawrence got a triple.

Vulcan plays at Powers Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock and Coach Zig Sheski said he would start Bob Lawrence on the mound.

Line score:

Channing	300 001 1—5	3	6
Powers	111 210 2—8	6	6

Andeson and Fende.

Bruce, Henderson, B. Lawrence and Perket.

Lions Sign Veteran And Pair Of Recruits

DETROIT — (AP) — The Detroit Lions have signed two recruits and a veteran for their 1951 national football league campaign.

The recruits are tackle Wayne Siegert of Illinois and center Frank Kazmierski of West Virginia. The veteran is halfback George Buksar of San Francisco, a former star with the Chicago Hornets and Baltimore Colts.

Hoeft May Be Back In Major League Soon

TOLEDO, O—(AP)—Pitcher Billy Hoeft, the Detroit Tigers' sparkling farm hand who's just a year out of high school, may be playing major league ball sooner than his superiors expected.

Hoeft's sudden spurt into the professional baseball picture is being compared to Bob Feller's famous jump from the corn fields of Iowa to the Cleveland Indians in 1936.

The story of Hoeft, an 18-year-old left-hander now with the Toledo Mudhens, would make a movie writer drool. Especially the latest part about Toledo.

Turns Down $40,000

Virtually every major league club tried to sign Billy after he pitched four no-hit games for Oshkosh, Wis., high school. He struck out all 27 opposing batters in one game.

He turned down bonuses ranging up to $40,000 to sign a non-bonus contract with Detroit.

"I don't want to be a bonus player. I know I couldn't expect to be ready for the big leagues," he said.

The Tigers farmed him out to Richmond (Ind.) of the class D Ohio-Indiana league. He won 11 and lost one, the defeat coming by a 2-1 score.

Most remarkable was his control for a rookie lefty. He faced 336 batters and gave up only 34 walks while striking out 122.

The Tigers took him to spring training where he sparkled against big league opposition. He showed poise and control but apparently needed more experience.

Writers Won Over

So the Tigers considered sending him to Williamsport of the class A Eastern league. But they decided to give him a fling in AAA ball with Toledo of the American association.

Then he could be eased over the Williamsport where he could get regular work.

Toledo sportswriters were somewhat critical of sending such a green rookie to Toledo. They're changing their viewpoint now.

Hoeft's first effort was a 10-inning 2-1 loss to Minneapolis. Then he hurled a 3-2 win over Milwaukee.

In Toledo they're echoing the words of Detroit coach Ted Lyons, once a great pitcher himself: "There's so little that Hoeft has to learn. All he needs is the poise that comes with experience."

Wolverines Hope To End Miseries

DETROIT — (AP) — Michigan's luckless baseball team engages Wayne University here today in a respite from Big Ten competition.

The Wolverines, who have gone winless in four Western conference starts, will start Bob Carpenter, junior righthander. It will be Carpenter's first starting role.

Leo Koceski, hard hitting left fielder, may miss the game because of a spiked hand suffered in the double loss to Iowa last weekend.

Wayne last week dropped a 26-1 game to Michigan State.

Tri-County Loop Meet Tomorrow

HERMANSVILLE — The Tri-County Baseball league will meet at John Bartozek's, Perronville Wednesday at 8 p. m. (fast time) Frank J. Rodman, secretary, said today.

The Tri-County league will operate as a ten team circuit this year. Escanaba, Daggett and Wallace are the new members while Felch dropped its franchise.

The schedule will be announced at the meeting Wednesday. The circuit will start competition May 13.

Spilling The Dope

American league tub-thumper Earl Hilligan dug this one out of the past . . . seems George Moriarty, the old-time ump, called a third strike on a hot-tempered player who had tangled with him before . . . as George bellowed "stee-rike three," the player turned calmly and asked: "Mr. Moriarty, how do you spell your name?" . . . . . George boomed out: "M-O-R-I-A-R-T-Y." . . . "I knew it," roared the player . . . . "Knew what?" asked George, puzzled . . . "Moriarty—with one I."

Looks like the Indians really are taking aim at the pennant, since they've seen the Red Sox aren't going to run away with the thing . . . addition of Lefty Lou Brissie gives Cleveland a heck of a pitching staff, but what about that Yankee habit of throwing shutouts? . . . new stunt tried recently at Maysville, Ky., was a "tryout" for prospective college basketball players . . . 90 seniors from 40 high schools scrimmaged before college coaches . . . the Maysville Lions club staged it to give the unpublicized players a break . . . anniversary item: it was on April 30 (1922) that Charley Robertson of the White Sox pitched the last perfect game in major league history . . . and on May 2 (1939) Lou Gehrig ended his string of 2,130 consecutive games for the Yankees.

Penn State, which has been down in football for a couple of years, is about to branch out again with some fresh intersectional rivalries. Look for an announcement any day . . . and North Carolina State, which was supposed to show some flashy football after importing split-T tutors from Oklahoma, didn't show much in spring drills. One suggestion is that basketball is sopping up the gravy in the scholarship lunch wagon . . . Ohio State's Woddy Hayes, who had been toiling to install a new formation and learn the capabilities of a new squad, sighs: "I never realized how little time you have to play college football."

Sad Sack A's, Tigers Meet

DETROIT— (AP) —The anxious Athletics and the tottering Tigers open a two-game series here today that should prove who's the worse.

The A's who acquired four new players in a three-way swap Monday, now blush with the longest streak in the majors.

They have lost 10 straight games, winning only once in their 13 starts since the season opened, and are in last place in the American league standings.

In the trade they obtained outfielders Dave Philley and Gus Zernial from Chicago and catcher Ray Murray and pitcher Sam Zoldak from Cleveland.

To get the four, they gave up their ace pitcher, Lou Brissie, and outfielder Paul Lehner.

The Tigers, who looked wistfully in the direction of all the trading activity, haven't been doing much better than the Philadelphians to date.

They have won three of their eight starts and are in sixth place in the league, four and a half games ahead of the A's. St. Louis, with four wins and eight losses, ranks seventh.

Tiger Manager Red Rolfe, worried about his team's weak hitting and sloppy fielding, expected to start the veteran Dizzy Trout against Philadelphia.

Jimmy Dykes, Athletics' chief, planned sending Carl A. Scheib, a righthander who won three and lost 10 last year. He appeared in 43 games.

The series opens a 10-game home stand which also sees the Tigers take on Boston, New York and Washington.

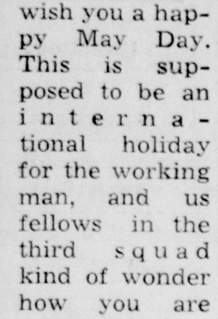
GI Joe From Korea Writes Kremlin Joe

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—An open letter to Joseph Stalin, care of the Kremlin, Moscow:

Dear Mr. Stalin:



HAL BOYLE

As one Joe to another, I am just writing to wish you a happy May Day. This is supposed to be an international holiday for the working man, and us fellows in the third squad kind of wonder how you are celebrating it.

You guys in the Kremlin knocking off early today to watch the big parade? And afterwards I'll bet you'll be hip-deep in caviar and vodka. Pretty nice, Joe, you got it made. That's the way for a working man to live. You've become the poor man's rich man in Russia.

Too bad you can't be with us here in Korea. We're having a parade also. But it's a noisy parade, and just means more work for us.

That's enough to make a guy see red, and boy are we seeing red? Nothing but red—Red Chinese. They organized this May Day parade, and it's one big bloody mess.

It's in your honor, Joe, and in the villages north of us your propaganda agents are busy again pasting up your picture on every house door. The liberated Koreans are cheering for you—at gun point.

This parade is the third one your boys have organized to throw us out of Korea. It's the bloodiest one so far, but much as we hate to mess up your party we don't think the parade is going to get all the way down to Pusan.

We'll give you one thing, Joe. Your parades are hard to break up. But your poor Chinese marchers don't have much choice. They have our guns in front of them—and your guns behind them to keep them from turning and running for home.

Let's Play Peace

At your age, Joe, you should be ashamed of playing with puppets. Live puppets at that. Why don't you call off your little puppet show, and play at a big game called peace?

The funny thing about your May Day parade is that the working man in Korea don't like it. They don't want it. And most of them aren't staying to watch your festival. They're leaving their homes to fall back with us. Why? Because they don't believe in either your parades or your promises. They don't think you remember what it is to be an honest working man.

Why won't you call it off, Joe? Why don't you give the real working men of the world a break instead of just another empty promise?

See you at parade rest, Joe. It won't be much longer.

HADACOL

HERE'S WHAT THEY ARE SAYING FROM COAST TO COAST
HADACOL Relieves The Cause of Stomach Distress, Aches and Pains, Weak, Run-Down Conditions,
Poor Appetite and Nervousness When Due to a Deficiency of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Niacin and Iron

E. A. Drumright, 313 Main St., Nashville, Tenn., says this about today's great HADACOL: "I feel I should write you and tell you what HADACOL has done for me. I was run-down and not able to work and had no ambition. All I wanted to do was sleep. I took HADACOL and went to work and am feeling fine and have a good appetite, and sleep good. I can recommend HADACOL to anyone in a run-down condition. I am 68 years old and have taken six bottles."

HADACOL is so economical—only $1.25 for trial size.

Mrs. Ardena Longaker, Rt. 5, Meadowbrook Rd., North Kansas City, Mo.: "I am a minister's wife and am 39 years old. Two years ago I had an operation and just had a hard time getting back my energy. I was run-down, lost weight, was listless, and had no appetite at all. I'm on my fifth bottle now and am amazed at the results. I want to eat all the time now. Most of all, I'm glad to say, I've gained several pounds. HADACOL is so economical I believe almost anyone can afford it, and I do recommend it to my friends."

Frank W. Woche, 531 Apache, Houston, Texas: "I was so run-down and my son-in-law suggested I take HADACOL. I had lost lots of weight and was tired all the time. After the first small bottle I started feeling better right away. I have now taken four more large bottles and wouldn't be without HADACOL. HADACOL has done so much for me. It's wonderful and all of my friends saw how bad I was looking and now tell me how much better I look. I can't say enough for HADACOL."

Mrs. LaRue Unsbee, Saunemin, Illinois: "My son Gary is four years old, and will be five in July. His grandfather, Mr. J. W. Simmons who lives with us, was taking HADACOL and it helped him. We had been having so much trouble getting Gary to eat. It seemed as if it would take the entire family to coax him to eat. After we started giving him HADACOL his appetite picked up right away. He will eat three hearty meals a day, gets up in the morning all set for a big breakfast. HADACOL has certainly helped Gary's appetite."

Mrs. J. E. Roberts, 1516 Lincoln Little Rock, Ark.: "I am a mother with five children and with all my housework I was so run-down and just couldn't seem to eat at all. I heard about HADACOL and decided to try it, to see if it would help me. I could tell from the first bottle that it was helping me. I started eating right away—my appetite picked up a lot. After that I took three more bottles of HADACOL, and really believe that HADACOL is a good product, and it has certainly helped me."

Mrs. Letha Fitzpatrick, 401 E. Elm St., Scottsville, Ky.: "I couldn't sleep. I didn't have any appetite and wasn't able to do anything. Then I heard and read about HADACOL and what it had done for others. I decided to give it a trial. I have taken several bottles and I can truthfully say it has really helped me. I feel so much better. I have a lot more strength. I can eat now and I'm gaining weight. I do my work, work in my flowers, also in the garden. Now I'm putting up my fruit and vegetables. I can't thank HADACOL enough for what it's done for me."

Mrs. Thomas Fanning, Francisco, Ala., says about her daughter, Norine: "I just want to say a few words about HADACOL. I can't praise it enough for what it has done for my little seven-year-old girl. She was weak and pale, and did not eat very much. So, I decided to try HADACOL. Now, she eats more and has a better color and has gained weight. My friends and neighbors all are talking about her looking so much better. I can't say enough for it. I recommend it to my friends and neighbors or anybody. I will know from now on what to get when any of my family needs help."

Mrs. Anne Franks, 434 West Seven St., Newport, Ky.: "As a constant user of HADACOL—and am on my fourth bottle—would not hesitate to acclaim it the best. I was so run-down I could hardly do my work. And that is important as I do a man's job in a shoe factory. I felt that I did not have enough energy to lift my hands. I felt so let-down everything annoyed me. But since I've taken my first bottle, I've been helped so much that now I'm up and ready and anxious to get my work done and am not tired, but am able to do my housework. I cannot praise HADACOL and its makers enough."

Mrs. Margaret Gordon, 113 Forrest St., Clover, S. Car.: "I didn't have the energy to do anything, and I couldn't sleep at night. I had gas pains all the time. So many friends told me how it had helped them, so I decided to try HADACOL. I have taken three bottles, and am on my fourth bottle. I can't express my gladness for all that it has done for me. Now, I can sleep well at night, and I work. I praise HADACOL very much. I will not do without HADACOL anymore. It has done wonders for me. I can eat anything I wish now, and it doesn't hurt me any more. I am 26 years of age."

Miss Ometha White, 1709 Bush Ave., Alexandria, La.: "I am 25 years old and have lived in Alexandria all my life. I am employed by a canning company. A year ago I was nervous and run-down. I lost my appetite and couldn't sleep. A friend told me about HADACOL and I decided to try it. I have been taking one bottle a week for a year and I can report wonderful results. I am gaining weight, my nerves are OK . . . I have a good appetite and I can sleep nights again. One bottle a week did it and I recommend HADACOL to all who have my ailments."

Mrs. Joe Bukowski, 921 Sanborn St., Ottumwa, Iowa: "Before I started taking HADACOL it was nearly impossible for me to do my housework. . . . I was weak, nervous, didn't sleep well, and lacked an appetite. But thanks to regular use of HADACOL, I now do all my housework, sleep well, and have a good appetite. I don't have that tired-out feeling. I'm really 100 per cent better since taking HADACOL."

Mrs. Walter Shields, Hornsbyville, Va., says about her young son: "I have a little boy who had stomach distress every time he went riding in a car. Nothing did him any good. I heard about HADACOL and have given him two bottles. He doesn't suffer from his stomach any more."

HADACOL is sold on a strict money-back guarantee. You'll feel great with the first few bottles you take or your money back.

Mrs. Anna M. Dehlendorf, 631 E. Pope St., St. Louis 15, Mo.: "I have been taking HADACOL for six months, and feel fine again. I was rundown. I am 60 years old, and do housework, laundry by the day for different parties, and I also do baby sitting in the evening. Before I started taking HADACOL, I was underweight—I only weighed 97 pounds. Now my weight is 135 pounds. I eat good, sleep good, and feel good."

Marcus Dee Starkey, 1866 Farrow St., Kansas City, Kansas: "Before taking HADACOL, I suffered such stomach distress after each meal I could hardly work. My wife bought me a bottle of HADACOL, and I will bless the day she did this for me. I took this wonderful discovery and after one week I was actually surprised at the results. I have now taken four of the large bottles, and that isn't all, I will continue taking it."

Mrs. Lula Nelsoni, 1702 E. 63rd Street, Huntington Park, Los Angeles, California: "I was run-down, couldn't sleep at night, had aches and pains and with seven children to care for I couldn't get my work done. After three bottles of HADACOL I felt so much better I could do more work than ever before. I've been taking HADACOL ever since and feel so good. I now give it to my children and it has helped them, too."
